Big Three's Second Formal Session Is Heavily Blanketed by Security

Truman Meets Stalin, Churchill in Separate Conferences

By DANIEL DE LUCE

POTSDAM, July 18 (AP) — Three veterans of old battlefields— President Truman, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill—conferred again late today, with Allied victory in the Pacific a pressing goal.

This second formal meeting of the Big Three was a heavily blanketed by security as yesterday's but the trend of thought among the American and British delegations seemed to make it certain that the ways and means for Japan's defeat would be fully aired before the Soviet leader.

Earlier in the day, Truman conferred separately with Churchill and Stalin.

The day's events indicated the leaders were agreed upon reaching as promptly as possible full agreement on the issues facing them—issues upon which a speedier end of the war with Japan and the future peace of Europe may depend.

Truman, the presiding officer of the tri-power sessions, seeks as his chief goals a quicker triumph over Japan and the bulwarking of peace through solution of long-standing disputes.

He lunched today at 1 p. m. with Churchill, and then later with Stalin. He was accompanied at the second luncheon by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, his close friend and an experienced negotiator.

Under cloudy skies, the president walked from his residence to the local equivalent of No. 10 Downing street, and was greeted at the gate by Churchill and his soldier-daughter, Mary, an announcement from the British delegation said.

Truman and Churchill talked cordially on the terrace while photographs were taken, and then lunched inside at a table set for two. When Truman was leaving, Byrnes emerged from British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's house next door, where he had lunched, and met the president at the entrance.

Stalin was host to the president at 3 p. m. at a comparatively brief luncheon, but there were evidences that it was cordial. Caviar, fish, and meat apparently were on the menu.

Byrnes, Foreign Commissar Vyachevslav Molotov, the president's military and naval aides, Brig.-Gen. Harry H. Vaughan and Capt. James K. Vardaman, Jr., and Charles E. Bohlen, State department Russian experts, also were guests of Stalin.

Byrnes—like Truman—is an experienced veteran of compromises smoothly worked out on Washington's Capitol Hill, and now as secretary of state brings that experience and diplomatic ability to discussions of vital international problems being worked out here. He was an advisor to President Roosevelt at the Yalta conference and other meetings.

Truman's calls today returned the visits paid him by Churchill on Monday and by Stalin on Tuesday. The president is understood to be planning a dinner soon at which Stalin and Churchill will be honored guests.

Revised GI Bill Of Rights Skims Through House

Members Complain as Measure Comes Up without Notice

WASHINGTON, July 18—(AP)—A revised GI Bill of Rights skimmed through the House by unanimous voice vote today, although several members complained about the procedure which brought the measure up without advance notice.

Its major provisions are designed to liberalize the loan and education sections of the overall veterans' benefits measure enacted last year anti to overcome difficulties that have arisen in administration of the original law.

Not scheduled for consideration until after th esummer recesss ending in October, the legislation was called up unexpectedly by Chairman Rankin (D-Miss), of the Veterans committee.

Most house members already have left Washington, and Rankin threatened to block adjournment plans by insisting on the presence of a quorum unless his legislation was considered immediately.

The new measure, which requires Senate approval, makes only minor changes in the hospitalization, employment, unemployment compensation, and administrative titles of the original GI Bill of Rights.

In the education and loan titles it makes these major revisions:

Education: Extends from two to four years after discharge the time in which a study course may be started; extends from seven to nine years after the war's end the time in which education or training may be given at government cost; provides for short intensive postgraduate or vocational courses of less than thirty weeks; permits the government to finance correspondence courses; increases from $50 to $60 the monthly educational subsistence allowance of a veteran without dependents, and from $75 to $85 the allowance for a veteran with dependents.

Loans: Extends from two to six years after discharge or the end of the war the time in which a veteran man apply for a government-financed loan; permits a qualified veteran to negotiate with any established lending agency or any agency or individual approved by the veterans administrator for a loan for the purchase of a home, farm or business in any amount; retains the existing limitation of fifty per cent of the principal, or $2,000, whichever is less, on the amount of the loan the government will guarantee; prohibits the negotiation of loans until thirty days after a veteran's discharge; provides that the loan application need be approved only by the lender, instead of by the veterans administration; and provides that the reasonable value of property involved in a loan shall be determined by the lender's appraisal.

World Bank Bill Survives First Test in Senate

Taft's Motion To Postpone Action on Measure Is Rejected

WASHINGTON, July 18. (AP)—A solid phalanx of Democrats and a handful of Republicans flattened opposition to the Bretton Woods monetary legislation in its first Senate test today.

Rallying to the call of Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.), the Senate rejected, 52 to 31, a motion by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) to postpone action on the House-approved fund-bank bill.

Plans of leaders to bring the bill to a final vote today bogged down under six hours of general debate.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) served notice that he will strive for final passage tomorrow so that the Senate can clean up its other business and take up the United Nations Charter Monday.

A half dozen proposed amendments to the Bretton Woods bill still are pending.

The result apparently indicated early Senate approval of the measure without major amendments.

The legislation would authorize United States participation in a $9,100,000,000 world bank to help nations finance reconstruction and an $8,800,000,00 fund to stabilize currencies.

Taft asked that action be postponed until Nov. 15 to await the convening of a world trade conference by the proposed United Nations organization.

In the meantime, he argued, emergency economic aid to Europe will be channeled through the export-import bank and lend-lease operations. He cited unanimous approval by the Banking committee earlier in the day of a House-passed bill boosting the export-import bank's capital from $700,000,000 to $3,500,000,000.

Barkley replied that because sixty-five per cent of the forty-four nations which took part in the Bretton Woods conference must signify their official approval of the bank-fund setup before Dec. 31, adoption of the Taft motion would kill the agreement. He contended another international conference would have to be held to revive it.

Taft's motion found support in the debate from such exponents of opposite views on foreign affairs as Sen. Brooks (R-Ill.) and Sen. Ball (R-Minn.)

Yankee Fliers Encounter Heavy Antiaircraft Fire In Bomb, Torpedo Assault

Adverse Weather Prevents Report on Results; Naval Bombardment of Tokyo Region Carries into Third Straight Day; British Aircraft Strike Western Coast of Honshu

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, Thursday, July 19 (AP) — American carrier aircraft discovered combat ships, probably remnants of the Japanese navy, hiding in Yokosuka naval base in Tokyo bay and attacked heavily yesterday with bombs and torpedoes despite bad weather and accurate, intense anti-aircraft fire.

Yokosuka, one of the empire's largest naval bases, is only about eighteen miles southeast of Tokyo, near the mouth of Tokyo bay. It might have appeared to the Japanese to be an obvious hiding place for remnants of its once great navy.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz's communique today reported briefly that carrier pilots "launched a heavy attack on combatant shipping off Yokosuka" and added "no report of damage to targets is yet available."

Although he made no elaboration, it seemed highly probable that the combatant ships included some at least of the few warships left to the empire.

Choice Targets

The world's greatest naval force, the combined United States and British Pacific Fleets, has been bombing and bombarding Honshu and Hokkaido unchallenged — but hoping for a meeting with anything the Nipponese war lords dared send out. It is certain that carrier pilots were looking anxiously for Japanese warships. Nimitz's communique indicates they probably found them.

Nimitz reported that both American and British carrier planes, comprising the world's greatest striking force, carried their assaults on the Tokyo region into the second successive day yesterday and that an American cruiser-destroyer force steamed close inshore to shell Nojima cape, only fifty miles southeast of Tokyo at the entrance to Tokyo bay.

The bombardment carried into the third straight day the fleet's attack on the Tokyo region. The shelling, begun at 11 p. m., Wednesday night, Tokyo time, continued until early this morning (about noon Wednesday, Eastern War Time.)

Nimitz also disclosed that while co-ordinating their attacks, American and British carrier planes struck separate targets in Tuesday's combined 1,500 aircraft assault.

British Planes Active

British aircraft crossed Honshu to strike its western coast, north of Tokyo, in the first carrier plane attack on Western Honshu.

Remnants of Japan's once great navy — reduced by repeated defeats to one of the world's smallest — had been hiding desperately, under camouflage, since it was administered one of history's worst beatings off the Philippines last October.

In three separate actions Oct. 24 and 25, the United States Third Fleet under Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr., and the Seventh fleet under Vice Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid, sank or damaged fifty-nine Japanese warships, including more than a dozen carriers and battleships, out of a total force of sixty-one warcraft which dared to attempt to smash the Philippines' invasion force.

Yokosuka naval base probably was the most obvious place for the ships to have sought to hide—inside Tokyo bay—for it possibly was the last place the enemy would expect American forces to seek it.

Antiaircraft fire, intense and accurate, from the Japanese warships presumably was the only enemy resistance to any of the new American attacks.

Japs Scoff at Raids

Many hours later, Radio Tokyo, in a propaganda broadcast beamed to North America, scoffed at the carrier raids and bombardment as designed to boost American morale, which it described as unsatisfactory to United States war leaders.

"The enemy tactic x x x has been seized up by the Japanese command and was found not worth meeting," the unidentified propagandist said, adding that the Japanese command is determined not to act, no matter how great the "enemy provocation." He described this as a "wait and see" policy."

Nimitz said adverse weather and poor visibility prevented reconnaissance planes from reporting any results of this audacious attack.

He also reported that American and British carrier planes raided the Tokyo and East Honshu coastal areas throughout yesterday and that light naval units—cruisers and destroyers—of the United States Third Fleet, went close inshore to bombard the Eastern Honshu coast last night and early today.

Bojima Bombarded

Rear Adm. Carl Holden commanded the cruiser-destroyer force which bombarded Bojima, south of Tokyo, and other coastal installations.

They created one large explosion, in an unidentified target.

Nimitz said the cruisers Topeka, Oklahoma City, Atlanta and Dayton, and the destroyers Ault and John W. Weeks were among those shelling the coastal city's military and industrial areas.

Nimitz gave this preliminary and incomplete report of damage caused by Tuesday's raids by American carrier planes:

Burned four seaplanes on the water; damaged five others.

Sank three vessels and damaged ten others.

Destroyer two hangers, two locomotives and oil dump.

Damaged factories, lighthouses, trains, three locomotives and an aircraft hangar.

British carrier planes, striking separate targets in co-ordination with the United States carrier force, reported these results:

Destroyed thirteen Japanese planes on the ground and a hangar at Matsuda.

Destroyed three locomotives and a railroad station, barracks and hangars.

Two Are Killed When Bus Breaks Through Bridge

RICHMOND, Va., July 18 (AP)—A Greyhound bus carrying fifty persons broke through an undermined bridge across normally-small Gillies creek within the city limits of Richmond in predawn darkness today and was swept 100 yards downstream by flood waters. Only two persons were killed and none of the others was injured seriously.

Soldiers and sailors among the passengers broke windows and people climbed out to swim to safety or to cling to the top of the almost submerged bus until rescued. Captain O. D. Garton, of Richmond police, said bout fifteen inches of air space above the water in the bus enabled the people to live until they could extricate themselves.

Five hours after the accident occurred police and firemen removed the body of Donna Jean Hammell, a three-months-old infant at 9 a. m. The body of Pfc. Julius R. Slofkin, 29, of Brooklyn, a soldier stationed at Camp Patrick Henry, was found shortly after noon when the bus was pulled to shore with cables. Identification was made by officers of McGuire General hospital.

Forty-six persons were treated at the Medical College of Virginia hospital, but most were quickly released. Many of them were suffering from shock, chill and minor cuts and abrasions.

Mrs. Evanora Hammell, of Delta, Pa., mother of the dead child, was suffering from shock and hospital authorities said her condition was "fair." She told investigators that the swirling waters pulled the baby right out of her arms.

The bus, inbound from Norfolk, went through the bridge a few minutes after an outbound bus had passed over it. Most of the passengers were sleeping.

Fall of Kweilin To Chinese Army Forces Is Near

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, July 18. (AP) — Six Chinese army columns, mowing down hundreds of Japanese troops in gains up to twelve and one-half miles, converged on Kweilin today while spearheads fought through suburban gun positions protecting the city's three former American air fields, the Chinese high command reported.

Recapture of the biggest United States Fourteenth Air Force base in Southern-Central China appeared near as Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's warriors swept toward the Kwangsi province capital on a 140-mile front.

Three hundred miles to the east —on the eastern flank of Tokyo's transcontinental corridor from Korea to Hong Kong — Chinese troops captured the Kiangsi province highway center of Kanhsien four days after rewinning its outlying air base, a communique said.

At Kweilin, 350 miles southeast of Chungking, a bitter swaying battle raged in the city's outskirts near its three air fields as vanguards struggled to penetrate the Japanese defense lines, while major forces moved toward Kweilin from the south, southwest, west, north and northeast.

A fifth Chinese group, fifty-seven miles northeast of Kweilin beat back a vicious Japanese counterattack against veterans who established a roadblock across the Kwweilin-Hengyang railroad near Chaihsu, cutting the Japanese garrison's main escape route.

A wide outflanking movement at the same time gained ground sixty-eight miles south of Kweilin where a sixth column speared toward the Japanese supply base of Pinglo and drove to the approaches of Hsiuenhsien.

Blast at Naval Armament Depot At Halifax Kills at Least 13

HALIFAX, Thursday, July 19 (AP)—At least thirteen persons were killed and twelve injured last evening in a series of explosions which wrecked the Royal Canadian naval armament depot near here and started a raging fire that threatened early this morning to spread to the main magazine.

The blasts, beginning with a great concussion which shook the Halifax area for miles around at 6:35 p. m., forced the evacuation of about 10,000 people from the danger area.

The total number of casualties still was uncertain, but a Canadian naval officer, Lt. Comdr. William Sclater, said he believed that no one in the magazine area in the immediate vicinity of the first blast could have survived. Figures on how many were working in the magazine at the time were unavailable.

Blasts continued to rock the naval depot at intervals, with a terrific detonation at 12:20 a. m. which was even louder than the first explosion.

Every truck, military and civilian, was pressed into service in the Dartmouth area, across the harbor from here, to move people from the danger zone. The north end of Dartmouth is close to the magazine.

Fire boats rushed to the scene, but were withdrawn when it was found the blaze was uncontrollable.

From the Bedford side of the basin flames could be seen reaching 150 feet into the air.

There was no official explanation of the cause of the initial blast, which was said to have consumed hundreds of tons of explosives. An unconfirmed report, however, said it was touched off when a barge unloading at the naval magazine caught fire.

The scenes recalled the 1917 disaster here, when an ammunition ship exploded in the harbor, killing 1,600 persons.

As each explosion occurred projectiles were hurled into the air over Bedford Basin. Some of them were rockets used for illuminating targets during the war at sea.

A duty officer at headquarters of Military District No. 6 said the first blast was in the main magazine and added that three large fires and two small ones were burning at the depot.

Ambulances rushed to the scene and an army public relations officer said the first casualties had been taken to the hospital of the army antiaircraft training camp at Bedford, about five miles around Bedford Basin from the magazine. He said he was unable to say how many there were.

The armament depot is made up of small, isolated brick buildings in which depth charges, shells and propellants for the navy are kept. Large mounds of earth surround most of the buildings containing explosives.

Hoover Declares Senate Should Ratify Charter

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18 (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover stated tonight that the San Francisco Charter should be ratified by the Senate.

The charter, he said in an address prepared for delivery over the Columbia Broadcasting System "is better than Dunbarton Oaks and is probably as good as could be obtained under the existing emotions, the present governments, the conflicting ideals and ambitions in the world."

But, he declared, "there are many weaknesses in the charter," and he urged specifically that "somewhere along the line there must be a definition by the Congress of the powers" of the United States representative on the World Security Council.

The former president contended: "While there need be little worry about our representative using our military forces for minor police incidents, yet the Congress should never part with its powers to declare war. x x xHis authority should be defined so that the delegate is in some way responsible to Congress before our country is committed to war."

These points Mr. Hoover described as weaknesses in the charter:

"There is no positive bill of rights for nations and men, but only a mere suggestion that they should be promoted. . . .

"The charter does not recover the principles of the Atlantic Charter which were whittled away at Teheran and after Yalta. . . .

"The charter fails to define aggression even in the admirable terms settled by the Soviet government for inclusion in its treaties of eleven years ago. . . .

"These weaknesses," the former president commented, "point the directions in which there should be amendment over the years to come.

Doctors Propose Medical Program

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP) — Physicians of the United States represented by the American Medical Association today proposed a fourteen-point program for "extending to all people in all communities the best possible medical care."

The program's objectives include improved housing, nutrition and sanitation fundamental to good health, a medical survey in each state, an extensive disease prevention campaign and increased hospitalization insurance "on a voluntary basis."

The program, adopted by the Council on Medical Service and Public Relations and the board of trustees of the A.M.A., was published today for the first time in the A.M.A. Journal.

"The Constitution of the United States, the Bill of Rights and the 'American way of life' are diametrically opposed to regimentation or any form of totalitarianism," the program's preamble asserted.

In the same issue, the A.M.A. Journal discussed "the forces now promoting the mechanism for medical service incorporated in the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill" and declared that "compulsory sickness insurance leads to regimentation and totalitarianism."

The new program predicted that "private enterprise and initiative manifested through research may conquer cancer, arthrities and other as yet unconquered scourges of humankind."

Vets of European War Raid Nippon

MANILA, Thursday, July 19—(AP)—Airmen from the European theater joined in the Far East air forces attacks on the Japanese homeland for the first time Monday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

The raids covered the length and breadth of Kyushu, southernmost Japanese main island. They were made by more than 350 planes without the loss of a single aircraft.

The communique announced the raiders scored effectively against enemy airfields, communications and industrial targets. There were no attempts at interception and no reports of serious enemy anti-aircraft challenge to the Okinawa-based planes.

The European veterans from the Mediterranean theater were led by Col. Joseph R. (Randy) Holzapple, of Peoria, Ill. They flew new Douglas-built A-26 Invader attack bombers in the first introduction of this aircraft into major action in this theater.

The Miyazaki area on Southeastern Kyushu provided targets for over thirty of the American planes. They left craters and damaged installations on the Miyazaki airstrip, one of Kyushu's major fields, and possibly hit two of the four or five serviceable planes on the field.

Direct hits also were scored on railroad lines, highways and bridges, the airmen reported. Miyazaki, a city of 60,000 population, is the center of Kyushu's southeastern farming region.

Japanese Admit Early Invasion Is a Possibility

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18 (AP) — Japanese broadcasts, declaring that Allied fleets again were shelling and bombing the island empire, asserted today that the attacks were feeling out the coastal defenses for an invasion which might come quicker than expected.

The Domei agency, in a broadcast heard by the Federal Communications Commission, said the naval raids were "reconnaissance in force" to test Japan's air power and to pick out likely landing points.

The military correspondent of the newspaper Yomiuri Hochi thought the attacks did not presage an immediate invasion, but hedged and admitted the possibility of a surprise landing.

"There is a possibility," he said, "of the enemy's undertaking a direct invasion attack on our mainland by dispensing with interim steps of a landing on the continental (Asiatic) coast or island—conquering operations in case the enemy underestimated our air power as a result of the present operations."

Domei told the people they must expect further naval bombardments and must determine to defend the homeland "without fear" now that Allied task forces can "attack us at any chosen time and place."

It urged civilians along the coast not to succumb to fear, as had the people of Kamaishi, first of the homeland cities to be shelled when the United States Third Fleet struck last Saturday.

"It was impossible to fight fires when the bombardment was in progress," Domei continued. "Accordingly, the danger of the spreading fire was much greater than in the case of enemy bombings.

"Since there were many who never before had experienced the falling of shells, many remained in the shelters long after the enemy warships had retired, unable to shake off fear."

Another dispatch said 1,000 residents of the northern home island of Hokkaido had been killed or wounded in shellings and bombings Saturday and Sunday.

Grain for Beverage Alcohol Is Allocated

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — Distillers will be permitted to continue manufacture of beverage alcohol during August under action taken by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson today in allocating grain for that prpose.

Industrial alcohol manufacturers previously were allowed to resume making beverage alcohol during July.

Anderson allocated 2,500,000 bushels of grain other than corn, but including malt, for distillers' use during August — an amount sufficient, department officials said, to permit them to operate between twenty and twenty-five per cent of capacity.

Termination of Jap Resistance In Burma Appears Close at Hand

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press News Analyst

The dying gasp of Japanese resistance in Burma seems at hand in the monsoon-flooded valley of the Sittang river north of Pegu.

Desperate enemy efforts to relieve trapped forces in the mountains north of the great Sittang bend and west of the river are reported, but only to facilitate their escape eastward into Thailand (Siam) as British military observers read the signs.

Estimates of the number of survivors of the once powerful Japanese Twenty-eighth Army in Burma vary but do not exceed some 6,000 men. From 1,000 to 2,000 of these have been cut off from escape across the Sittang by the veteran British-Indian Fourteenth Army despite flood conditions. Japanese artillery fire in the Sittang bend to the south implies an effort to force recall of Fourteenth army forces hemming in the trapped enemy elements in the north.

The operations in Southern Burma are impressive primarily because they indicate critical Japanese weakness in Indo-China, Thailand and on the Malay peninsula. And this is at the moment when the pattern of aggressive post-monsoon action by Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten's Southeast Asia command is beginning to take definite shape.

Obviously monsoon conditions in the bay of Bengal theater have less influenced Mountbatten's air and sea preparations for the coming campaign to reclaim Malaya and Singapore.

Task forces of the British East Indies Fleet have roved Dutch and Malayan waters, even deep into Malacca strait between the peninsula and Sumatra, to meet no opposition afloat or in the air.

British bombers from India have recently ranged close to 3,000 miles, round trip, to blast at enemy ports in the South China sea and communication centers above Singapore on the east coast of the peninsula.

Singora (Songkhla), the objective of that long range British air raid, is a key communications point for the foe at the lower end of the long and narrow isthmus linking the Malay peninsula to the Asiatic mainland. The strike is a clear indication of Mountbatten's intention to isolate the main body of the peninsula and Singapore by air forays in preparation for post-monsoon amphibious assaults.

1,322 Fighting Ships Have Been Added to Navy in Last Five Years

WASHINGTON, July 18. (AP)—Marking the fifth anniversary of the "two ocean fleet," the navy revealed tonight that 1,322 fighting ships have been added to its forces in these five years.

Thus the navy now boasts a force of around 1,500 fighting ships, the biggest navy in history, ready to support the invasion and force the Japanese enemy to its knees.

Added to the 383 combatant ships on hand on July 1, 1940, and deducting the 140 announced combatant ship losses, brings the total to 1,565 fighting ships. From this must be deducted an undisclosed number transferred to Allied nations under lend lease.

An the job is not yet done. Building yards, navy and private, are still at work completing the building program now grown to a "five ocean program," and a total of 223 ships remain on building schedules.

The record five-year construction program included 331 ships built in navy yards and 991 in private shipyards. Navy yard construction included seven battleships, five aircraft carriers, seven escort carriers, a heavy cruiser, fifty-eight destroyers, 155 destroyer escorts, and ninety-eight submarines.

Private yards built three battleships, thirteen aircraft carriers of 27,100 tons, nine carriers of 10,000 tons, 105 escort carriers, two large cruisers, nine heavy cruisers, thirty-three light cruisers, 312 destroyers, 393 destroyer escorts, and 112 submarines.

The bulk of the remaining program is due for completion this year and next, with a few units carrying over into 1947. It includes two battleships, three 45,000 ton aircraft carriers, nine 27,100 ton carriers, two 14,500 ton carriers, twenty-six escort carriers, a large cruiser, twenty-two heavy cruisers, nineteen light cruisers, eighty-seven destroyers, sixteen destroyer escorts including eleven converted to high speed transports, and thirty-six submarines.

Decrease Shown In Coal Output In Allegany

The Maryland Bureau of Mines reports that less coal was mined in Allegany county in 1944 than in 1943, while production in Garrett county increased last year.

The annual report made to Gov. O'Conor by John J. Rutledge, chief mine engineer, reveals that Allegany county miners produced 1,006,474.04 net tons of coal or 1,110.9 net tons per man employed in 1944. The Garrett county total was 869,330.14 net tons.

The tonnage for the two counties:

Allegany County

1943—1,093,178.17 net tons; 806 miners; 1,252 total employes.

1944—1,006,474.04 net tons; 906 miners; 1,431 total employes.

Garrett County

1943—838,813.19 net tons; 533 miners; 861 total employes.

1944—869,330.14 net tons; 524 miners; 893 total employes.

There was no explanation of why the Allegany county miners did not equal the output of those in Garrett county, but it was indicated that some mines in this area are reopened operations from which it is harder to obtain coal, while the Garrett county mines, for the most part, are "new" operations.

Fatal accidents last year were low in the two counties, which produce practically all of Maryland's coal. There were three such mishaps in Allegany and three in Garrett, the report showed, and with a total of 1,875,804.18 net tons of coal produced in 1944, the fatality rate was 3,198 per 1,000,000 net tons of coal produced. The Allegany fatality rate was lowest, 2,981, as compared with 3,451 in Garrett.

Nearly all of the coal produced in the two counties and shipped outside this area was hauled by railroads. Some was carried by truck, but the total was a fraction of the total tonnage.

The Western Maryland railway hauled 283,560 tons of coal from the George's Creek region, and a total of 963,865 from points along the line in Western Maryland. Coal shipments over the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad amounted to 517,294 tons, while mines along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads in this section of Maryland made coal shipments amounting to 41,310 tons.

In addition to coal production, the report also revealed that a total of 81,606.07 net tons of fire clay was produced last year in Maryland, a decrease from the 1943 total of 142,309.13 tons. A total of 59 men were employed in the state last year, producing fire clay, while in 1943 the total was 123 men.

Of the 1,006,474.04 tons produced in Allegany county last year, a total of 508,343.13 tons was listed as Big Vein, or nearly half the total tonnage. In Garrett county the largest amount produced was Lower Kittanning, with 437,998 tons out of a total of 869,330 for the year.

The report cited "there were no important stoppages of work or strikes in the region during the year, but at every mine there was a shortage of mine labor and considerable absenteeism. Other industries were attracting mine employes and this also resulted in considerable shortage of labor."

Under "prosecutions and Safety Orders," the report stated that four Garrett county mine owners were fined for failure to procure weighmaster licenses, under an Act of the Legislature passed in 1937, and they later secured licenses. One mine owner in Allegany county was ordered to make a safety opening, and the order was complied with at once.

The report was compiled under the direction of Joseph T. Singewald, Jr., director of the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources, of which the Bureau of Mines is a part.

Seventh Fleet Bombards Borneo

MANILA, Thursday, July 19. (AP) Units of the United States Seventh Fleet have returned to the battle of Eastern Borneo, bombarding Japanese shore positions deep in Balikpapan bay, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

Three troublesome Japanese gun positions and four barges were destroyed in the shelling, which highlighted operations strengthening Allied control of the strategic bay area.

Australian troops across the bay west of Balikpapan pushed seven miles inland along the Riko river, clearing trerritory from which the enemy might harass operations in the bay. Patrols found the retreating Japanese were abandoning supplies and equipment.

There was nothing new from the front northeast of Balikpapan, where the Australians were believed to be marshaling their forces for a big push against the rich oil fields of Sambodja and Samarinda.

In Western Borneo, rapid progress inland was reported by the original Australian invading force on the big island.

MacArthur's communique said that his forces drove thirty miles inland from the captured Miri and Seria oil fields and captured Marudi, a town of 6,000 population. The advance was unopposed.

Continued patrol action and mopping up was reported on Luzon and Mindanao in the Philippines.

"Lord Haw Haw" Gains Postponement of Trial

LONDON, July 18 (AP) — William Joyce—better known as the one-time Nazi radio's "Lord Haw Haw"—gained postponement of his treason trial until September after pleading today for more time to investiate records bearing on his contention that he was born in the United States and was never a British subject.

Challenging Britain's right to try him as a traiter to the king, Joyce, through his counsel, argued that the "matter of nationality plainly arises in its strongest form in this case—not only the nationality of Joyce but that of his father."

Defense Attorney Curtis-Bennett sprang a surprise in revealing to the Old Bailey court that certain documents—their contents kept secret—had been found in Hudson county, N. J.

After today's introduction of the documents relating to Hudson county, Jersey City reported that a William Joyce was born there on July 16, 1906.

WLB Group Will Study ITU-Publishers Dispute

CHICAGO, July 18. (AP)—The War Labor Board Newspaper Commission took under advisement today a dispute case between the AFL International Typographical Union and the Baltimore newspaper publishers.

The day-long hearing dealt largely with the controversial issue of whether the 1945 union laws of the ITU should be recognized by the publishers as the union demands.

Buzzing Infield Paces Chicago's Bid for Pennant

Grimm Admits Inner-Garden May Hold Key to Championship

By JERRY LISKA

(Pinch-hitting for Whitney Martin)

CHICAGO, July 16—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals still have the same sparkling infield that throttled National league rivals last season, but it's no longer in a class by itself.

Not at the rate the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds, especially the Bruins, are guarding the base paths.

Manager Charley Grimm admits his Cub inner-garden may hold the key to the pennant won last season by the Cardinals whose Marty Marion, Emil Verban, Whitey Kurowski and Ray Sanders paced the Red Birds to a new major league fielding record of .982.

The stretch run for the bunting may well be determined by a defensive duel between spidery Marion and his mates and the rejuvenated Cub infield which has an average player age of 31, four years older than the Cards' quartet.

The Cub combine of Phil Cavarretta, also a ball of fire at the plate, Don Johnson, Len Merullo and and perennial Stan Hack, seems to click better with every game and had Grimm's forces atop the league fielding columns as the club opened a 23-game home stand Thursday.

"They're playing perfect ball, that's why we're hard to beat," said Grimm.

Set Fielding Pace

At the last official reading, the Cubs paced the league defensively with .980, while the Redlegs, who don't seem to be getting anywhere in the pennant scramble, were next with .978. The Cards were third with .977.

It's difficult to pick the sparkplug of the Cub infield. It's anchored on both ends by a pair of veterans who have never played for any other major league club—Third Sacker Hack, who is grinding out his thirteenth season at Wrigley field, and First Baseman Cavarretta, who has been with the Cubs twelve years.

Hack, in his first sixty-four agmes, committed only four errors at the hot corner. In the same number of contests, Cavarretta fielded .991 with only four bobbles and in addition paced the Cubs at the plate with a better than .350 average.

Second Baseman Johnson is playing phenomenal ball. He has made more than a dozen miscues, but most of them came early in the season and now he is gobbling up almost every shot between first and second. Coach Milt Stock says Don is the most improved player on the club. "He never is caught off balance when he pivots on double plays now," Stock said. "He has poise, speed and snap on every play he makes."

Merullo Surprises

Merullo, who played in only sixty-six games last season, stepped in when Roy Hughes was injured and has proved the surprise of the year. He's still no Marion, but he covers shortstop with plenty of speed and isn't afraid to charge the ball.

On the Cubs' recent eastern rampage which produced thirteen victories in sixteen starts, ten of them in a row, Merullo fattened his batting average by fifty-five points. That only brought him up to .257, but now he appears to have acquired confidence that will give pitchers trouble.

Hack, who came off his Oregon Ranch last season to help the faltering Bruins and who grinningly answers Grimm's shouts of "Stanislaus," is the dean of the Cub infield at 35. Johnson, a slim six-footer, is 33. Cavarretta will be 29 on Thursday, while Merullo is the junior of the quartet at 27.

Couple Obtain Building Permits; Cite Need For Street Repairs

After obtaining two building permits from the city engineer's office yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Skelley, 536 Pine avenue, complained to Mayor Thomas S. Post that the street in front of their home needs ditching. Mayor Post promised action in the matter.

The Skelleys secured a permit to raise their home, build a foundation of concrete block, and erect a six by nine foot two-story frame addition for a pantry and clothes closet. A composition roof is planned. The owner and Donald McGill will do the work, estimated to cost $500.

The couple also obtained a permit to build a one-story concrete block building to be used for repairing electrical appliances and a garage. It will also have a composition roof. Cost is estimated at $500. The work will be done by the owner.

Former Cumberlander Is Charged with Murder

It was learned here yesterday that a warrant charging Charles Walter Wolfe, 33, former Cumberlander, with the murder of his alleged sweetheart was seryed on him Tuesday in the Washington county jail in Hagerstown.

Funeral services for the woman, Evangeline Ethel Fulk, 33, alias Ethel Cox, who was shot and killed Saturday night in Hagerstown, were held yesterday. She had sought refuge in a police cruiser car in front of an Elizabeth street home where the couple resided, and was shot in the presence of the officer driving the car.

Wolfe, who told police he resided in Cumberland until about 15 years ago, was taken from jail to a funeral home, at his request, to view the body of his victim Monday night. He stared in silence for several minutes and then walked away.

Officers said the shooting was premeditated, and that Wolfe said he "killed her because I loved her." Police were summoned to the house before the shooting started, and the officer was attempting to subdue Wolfe in the police car when the fatal shot was fired. The bullet passed through the woman's arm and entered the heart.

The OPA has no plans to set an expiration date on previously validated stamps, attaches added.

Pfc. Zollner Arrives Home after Release From Nazi POW Camp

Pfc. Melvin G. Zollner, 25, captured on Anzio beachhead by the Germans February 16, 1944 and liberated from Staleg 7-B fifteen months later, is spending a seventy-three day furlough with his mother, Mrs. Irene Zollner, 301 Pennsylvania avenue.

Following his release from the Nazi prison camp April 26, the local soldier was hospitalized in France. He arrived in the United States July 7.

Pfc. Zollner told his family the food in the prisoner of war camp was "not too bad," although the amount was small. The prisoner of war food packages distributed by the Red Cross, he added, were a welcome addition to the diet.

The local infantryman, who served with the Forty-fifth division, said he was not mistreated while a prisoner and added he had seen no examples of cruelty to prisoners of war.

The former St. Mary's high school student entered the army in May 1943 and went overseas the following October. His family did not learn he was a prisoner until three months after his capture. Pfc. Zollner reported he received mail and packages from home regularly.

The local soldier will report to Miami Beach, Fla., at the expiration of his leave. He will celebrate his twenty-sixth birthday tomorrow.

Girl, 22, Hesitates To Marry Man 23 Years Her Senior

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl 22 years old. I have been going with a man of 45 years, for the past two years. He's very good and would do most anything for me. He says he loves me very much, and I love him too, and would dislike very much if we separated.

Recently he asked me to marry him, but I hesitated because of the difference in our ages. Friends tell me if you love a man age doesn't matter. What do you think.

D.M.S.

In the long run there are certain cold facts to be considered about a mariage in which there is twenty-three years difference in ages. They have turned out very well in numerous cases when the man has already achieved distinction, has enough money on which to live after he retires, and if he is intersting.

But to come down to plain, everyday arithmetic, when you are 34 or 35 in the full bloom of womanhood, he will be an old man. If he has nothing but his salary on which to live he will probably be retired by that time and you will have to make a living for both. These things are to be considered prayerfully before you take the step.

Harpies Worry Wife

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We married very young, my husband at 22 ard I at 20. He's an orphan and the finest husband any girl would want. After being honorably discharged from the army, he took employment in the mill.

He hadn't been there very long before he started telling me that the girls asked him to go out for a drink or insisted on driving him home. Why can't those women and girls who work in plants let the married men alone?

I'm considered attractive, our little boy is handsome, and so is my husband. We get along swell at home. My husband never goes out without me, and he says he's proud of me and loves the baby and me very much. The girls at the mill call him up all hours and are willing to sell themselves for a few drinks or any small price. My husband is honest and dependable and always gives me his whole pay check.

I love my husband very much, but this uncertainty is about to get me down. I think he should quit his job or we'd better separate. What would you advise?

D. M.

There's nothing new about wives' problems concerning female harpies. Turn to Proverbs 30 in your Bible and read Verse 15: "The horseleach hath two daughters crying Give give." Your husband seems more levelheaded than most men in dealing with girls of this type. You tell me he gives you his entire pay envelope. If he continues to show such wisdom, the harpies will find him poor pickings and probably move on to someone more easily flattered—one of those simple-minded suckers always ready to be caught.

The Naval Academy And St. John's

A STATEMENT by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Naval Affairs committee regarding the fate of St. John's college at Annapolis would seem to settle the controversy that has waged for some time about it. This is because of the unexpected magnitude of the planned expansion of the naval academy.

The navy plans the expenditure of upward of $70,000,000 at the naval academy, Vinson says, increasing its size from the present wartime 3,400 midshipmen to between 6,000 and 7,500, a remarkable increase, indicating that the United States navy is to be kept at great strength in postwar.

It is also asserted that the college property is the "only logical site" for new dormitories and that it will be necessary to acquire it as well as the city blocks between the present academy wall and King George street, and the lot owned by the navy athletic association in West Annapolis. Protestants have held there would be sufficient room for expansion on the opposite side of the Severn river, but Vinson declares that "the proper place to expand it is adjacent to it and not across the river."

Objectors have held that St. John's should be maintained in its present ancient quarters but largely for sentimental and historical reasons, since it is the third oldest institution of its kind in the country and also because of the recent forward steps it has been taking in its educational endeavors. Their views are quite natural along with their fears that the institution may be forced out of Annapolis and possibly the state.

A thought in this connection, considering the hard struggles St. John's has had over the years, is that its faculty and equipment be merged with the state university plant, which is costing the taxpayers a big sum of money to maintain and which offers opportunity for an educational development small and ill-supported institutions could not possibly provide.

Truman Acts Wisely Against Air Monopoly

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has acted wisely and in the public interest by indorsing the Civil Aeronautics Board decision to award trans-Atlantic airline routes to the major carriers that have already proved their mettle in international air service.

Legislative approval of the presidential action has been indicated by the failure of the Senate Commerce committee to report favorably on the McCarran Bill (S.326) which advocated the principle of monopoly operation by one carrier, and for which Senator Radcliffe, of this state, unwisely voted.

The president's action is doubly significant. It will permit a young, growing industry to step into the international competitive picture at a time when many of our allies are completing plans to capture a share of the international air transport melon. And it reaffirms, for all the world to see, the basic American principle of competitive enterprise under reasonable government regulation.

That principle enabled our domestic airlines to build the greatest air transport system in the world before the war. With greatly increased know-how acquired during war-time service to all branches of the armed forces, many of these same companies will now carry the American flag and American commerce throughout the world. On their strong wings will rest much of the world's hopes for a lasting peace.

Washington reports for the past year have revealed the concentrated effort of a small minority to foist the monopolistic "chosen instrument" policy on our overseas air commerce. This effort was crystallized in a bill offered by Senator Pat McCarran, of Nevada, to create an "All-American Flag Line" into which all our international air transport operations would be merged.

But "chosen instrument" theories of this type apparently register no better with American legislators than with the American people. As heretofore noted, the Senate Commerce committee, after lengthy consideration and full public hearings, rejected the McCarran measure. That welcome action, coupled with President Truman's support of the C.A.B. recommendations, should establish beyond dispute the fact that America is ready, willing and able to assert its leadership in the air and purposes to do so on the basis of healthy, regulated competition.

Good Suggestions By Mr. Hoover

FORMER PRESIDENT HOOVER, in his radio broadcast Wednesday night, in which he rightly urged ratification of the San Francisco charter on the ground that it is much better than the Dumbarton Oaks draft and is probably as good as could be obtained, recommended that the powers of the United States delegate be defined. This is in accordance with views heretofore expressed by this nwspaper, and Mr. Hoover's reasons for the recommendations are of interest.

"From an American point of view," he stated, "ratifying the charter involves little commitment beyond those that may be entered into by our representative on the Security Council. And somewhere along the line there must be a definition by the Congress of the powers of this delegate. While there need be little worry about our representative using our military forces for minor police incidents, yet the Congress should never part with its powers to make war.

"It should be understood that the structure of our government differs from those of the other principal powers. The British and French are parliamentary governments where the executive is a committee of the legislative arm and constantly responsible to it. Therefore the authorized vote of their representative will be the view of the legislative arm. Russia is a totalitarian government where the vote of their representative will be determined in Moscow. We alone have such a separation of the powers of government. Ours is the only delegate on the Security Council who might commit his country to war without the consent of the legislative arm. His authorities should be defined so that the president or the delegate is in some way responsible to Congress before the nation is committed to war."

These are sound and moving reasons for such action. Equally sound is his reminder that the preservation of a lasting peace will rest upon the successful collaboration of there Big Three and that "it will require much patience, it will require great firmness, it will take time and much good will to find lasting solutions after the high emotions of war, of national ambitions, of differing national purposes, since the new organization is probably not perfect, although it provides a workable method if not a cure. This suggests that the work of America in seeking a durable peace does not end with the ratification of the United Nations charter—a work that should be carried on in consonance with the high purposes and peace ideals of this country.

The King Business Is Still on the Decline

"THE KING BUSINESS isn't what it used to be," Mark Twain once observed. Mark, of course, was speaking for the kings of his day, but the crowned heads of 1945 doubtless would agree that Mark had something. The business still isn't what it used to be.

There was a time when wars were the greatest glory of kings, but times have changed. World War I brought a wave of royal unemployment — the Hohenzollerns of Germany, the Hapsburgs of Austria-Hungary, the Romanoffs of Russia and the House of Osman in Turkey were notable casualties. Somewhat later King Alfonso, of the House of Bourbon, found pressing business outside Spain.

World War II has continued the trend. Already, King Victor Emanuel of Italy has had to step aside and the foundations of his House of Savoy are shaky. The latest to discover that the business of reigning is a touch-and-go proposition is King Leopold of Belgium. Unlike his father, who was one of the heroes of World War I, Leopold has emerged from the present conflict with dimmed prestige.

He has held on to his kingship, despite demands for his abdication, and he says that he has the bulk of the army behind him. His opponents claim that he was a Nazi puppet during the war and insist that the majority of his people have lost their respect for him.

Whatever happens to Leopold, it is likely that the Belgian monarchy will remain. The nation is almost equally divided between the French-speaking Walloons, mostly industrial workers, and the Dutch-speaking Flemings in the agricultural regions, and, as in the case of the British empire, the throne has become a symbol of unity between divergent groups.

Unlike Leopold, the kings of the Scandinavian countries have retained their hold on the liberated countries, as has Queen Wilhemina. None is powerfully politically — in the British tradition, they all reign but do not rule. And they are the exceptions. The war, apparently, has finished the monarchies in Greece, Rumania and Jugoslavia. And the emperor of Japan isn't too good a risk, either.

SUMMER SCHOOL

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

For a dozen years or more I have attended Summer School. No professors around, however. No class room to sit tight in. No books to read. No theories to be presented. None of these, for I have but one text book, one teacher, one classroom — and that all outdoors.

I plan out my own course of study and enjoyment. I study stones, trees, insects, small animals, birds and flowers. I walk through the thick woods and the sweet odors of pines and hemlocks, and wild flowers lift my spirit and divorce me from the world of materialism. For hours I relax on a mossy mound to watch the painting of masterpieces in the blue sky. I note sky formations that no artist has ever been able to surpass.

I commune with sounds and color. The night sky is revealed to me anew. The very stars talk. Each expanse of rocky shore holds a secret history, and I meditate upon it, I dream, speculate and imagine. There is not a dull day in my Summer School!

Friendly birds seem glad to welcome me to their haunts, and with small fear, they gather the food that I prepare for them. They become more numerous as their natural fear lessens. There are no restrictions at this Summer School of mine. It's a small group of islands in Nova Scotia on beautiful Grand Lake. One of God's outdoor cathedrals.

The sunsets and sunrises at the Summer School of mine are revelations. The golden rays of morning bathe the white birches and shimmer through the green pines, and a thousand reflections dance upon mossy paths. And when the day begins to fade, and the sun settles in the West—that's benediction time. Silence abounds. The sky is a riot of color. Then the birds give their final songfest, and it's time to retire!

My island home was rightly name —"Weskawenaak" (Happy Land). Knowledge is everywhere at this Summer School. All you have to do is to use your eyes, for there is something to learn from everything you see.

Germans Picked by United States Army Officers Go High Hat, Pearson Reports

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Army officers recently returned from Germany are telling this story to illustrate the difficulty of selecting Germans with whom they can co-operate.

When the Psychological Warfare Branch of SHAEF established the first Allied newspaper for German readers in Aachen last winter, it was decided to use German personnel wherever possible. Editorial control, however, was to be strictly Allied.

A type-setter who seemed to have the respect of his fellow-workers in the printshop of the existing Aachen newspaper was selected to serve as plant superintendent. He had come to the shop with a worker's cap, overalls, and mixed well with the other printers.

Next morning a man in a top hat, winged collar, frock coat and neatly pressed striped trousers appeared in the front office and asked where his desk was to be. The Americans at first did not recognize him, finally realized that he was the worker chosen the day before to be plant superintendent. After some hesitation, he was given a small private office.

About noon an American officer passed by this new office of the superintendent and found the words "Eintritt Verboten" (Entrance Forbidden) being lettered on the door.

Franco Gets Sugar

No matter how many high U. S. officials may oppose dictator Franco of Spain inside the government, he always seems to come up with a staunch defender in the State Department. This was illustrated recently during off-the-record debates on the highly delicate question of sugar.

Though the American public has been getting more and more pinched for sugar, the State department has always insisted that Spain be cut in for its quota. The State department has issued carefully-worded denials saying that the sugar does not come from the United States—which, of course, is true. It comes from British colonies in the Caribbean area. But so also does most sugar consumed by the American public come from the Caribbean, and during the war it has been tightly controlled by the Combined Food Board. Thus, whatever is sent to Spain, in the end, comes out of the sugar bowls of the American dinner table.

The Combined Food Board allocates sugar to all our Allies, and several weeks ago UNRRA placed before it an estimate that Poland, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Greece and Albania, all of them victims of Nazi aggression, should get a combined total of 140,000 tons of sugar.

The Combined Food Board thereupon agreed to let UNRRA have 40,000 tons to meet this need. This was considered a definite promise, and UNRRA then began searching to find an additional 100,000 tons.

Allies Get No Sugar

Just a few days ago, however, something happened. The Combined Food Board reversed itself. It notified UNRRA that the promised 40,000 tons of sugar would not be available for Poland, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Jugoslavia and Albania. In fact, none would be available.

Instead, 60,000 tons of sugar has been allocated by the Combined Food Board to Franco's Spain.

Most people recall that Poland fought valiantly until she was overrun by the enemy and then continued to fight underground. So did Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Greece and Albania. They all felt the heel of the conqueror.

But apparently the State department doesn't recall this. Nor does it recall that Franco set up radio intelligence stations for Hitler, sent all sort of strategic materials to Hitler, had the Spanish army trained by Hitler's agents, made all sorts of speeches praising the Nazi system and did everything possible to help Hitler win.

Despite all this, the State department instructed the Combined Food Board to send 60,000 tons of sugar to Franco and no sugar to our Allies who fought back against Hitler.

Note—UNRRA has now managed to find 20,000 extra tons of sugar in Cuba for Poland, Czechoslovakia, et al. But that's a long way from the required 140,000.

McKellar's Wrath

July 4 was Independence day to most of the U.S.A., but not to the guards of the Senate office building. It brought them a lot more work. For on that morning, about twenty senators, coming to their offices, were forced to take a little extra exercise by walking a block to three blocks in order to find an entrance to the building that was open. They finally found the main entrance open — with five guards sitting around enjoying the holiday which was not, for other federal workers in Washington, a holiday at all.

Combined with the wrath of the score of senators who wanted to work through the holiday was the anger of Senate President Kenneth D. McKellar. The gentleman from Tennessee, who puts in long, hard hours at his office, recently appointed his chauffeur, Frank Ensley, postmaster in the little town of Newbert, Tenn., with Mrs. Ensley named assistant postmaster. The Ensleys, who passed Civil Service examinations for their jobs, get $1,800 and $1,200 respectively.

McKellar's new chauffeur, not used to coming to the office building on holidays, pulled up at the entrance closest to McKellar's office and the senator walked to the door, only to find it locked.

He had to trudge back and around a corner for about 100 feet, then up a long flight of stairs to the main entrance to the building.

McKellar's experience, plus that of the other twenty senators, was detailed in no uncertain terms to Dave Lynn, capitol architect. Result is that instead of having two doors open on Sundays and holidays—with two guards splitting duty at each door from 8 a. m. till midnight and two elevator operators doing likewise at each open entrance—all the entrances must hereafter be open, with guards on duty. In addition, there must be a guard at the entrance to the parking space in the building courtyard, two men in the guard room, and elevator operators at each of the four corners of the building.

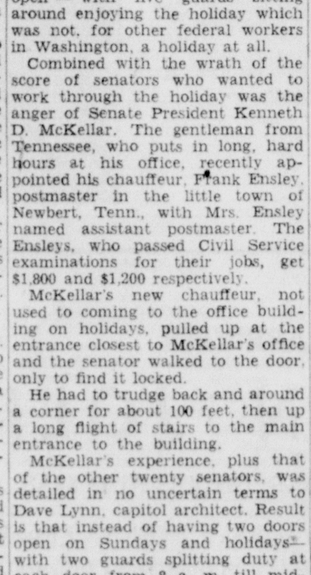

It doesn't pay to take time off on the Fourth of July.

Capital Chaff

Attention Col. A. R. Duwall, Commander, Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.: Did you know that you have a lot of men returned from overseas with discharge points ranging from ninety to 125, who are doing nothing more important than "squads right," teaching how to "G.I." the barracks, tie knots and read a compass? Some of them are wondering whether the army discharge system really amounts to anything . . . The American army has discovered another interesting docmuent in Cologne—a letter from the Nazis thanking the Ford Company of Cologne for a contribution of 35,000 marks to Hitler's birthday fund in 1939. Henry Ford was decorated by Hitler in 1939 . . . Col. Lindbergh got a Hitler medal at the same time . . . Prime Minister Churchill lost two of his key advisers last week in an Atlantic air crash: Sir William Malkin, legal adviser to the foreign office, and Capel Dunn, foreign office military adviser. Both were returning from San Francisco to accompany Churchill to the Big Three meeting . . . It was certain that Gen. Chennault, the Flying Tiger, would resign ever since Gen. Al Wedemeyer placed Lieut. Gen. George Stratemeyer over Chennault. Wedemeyer had been sore at Chennault for publicity complaining about the scanty supplies received for his Chinese-American flyers. There has been friction in the China command for a long while, first between Chennault and Stilwell, later between Chennault and Wedemeyer . . . Jimmy Dunn, the State department's chief defender of dictator Franco, is attending the Big Three sessions . . . Ed Pauley, head of the American reparations delegation at Moscow, also flew to Berlin.

U. S. SENATOR IS 80

SHOWN SEATED at his desk piled high with papers in his Washington office is Senator Arthur Capper (R), of Kansas, as he celebrated his eightieth birthday. The Senator told reporters, "I have had good health, good friends, and most of the time good luck. I have nothing to regret that I can recall."

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

CHATOU, France—I never knew Central Casting had an overseas branch until I walked into USO headquarters here. Just to give you an idea of the scope of the entertainment recruited for the G.Is of this theater, within my first five minutes I saw Lunt and Fontanne and Bozo Snyder, the burlesque king.

There are so many actors here the breeze from the bowing keeps the place air-conditioned. But it's wonderful. Regardless of your theatrical rating, everybody wears the same sort of uniform and stands in the same chow line. Some of my fellow diners at lunch were Constance Dowling, Reginald Gardiner, Clifton Fadiman, John Kieran, F. P. Adams, Billy Van, Linda Watkins, Artie Conroy, Bea Lillie, Cliff Hall, Broadway Harry Rose, Pat Lane, Harriet Page, Charlie Stewart and Joy Hodges.

We sat beside our old friend, Josephine Del Mar, who's been peddling comedy to the boys overseas for twenty-nine months. Josephine landed on the beach at Normandy early and has been here ever since.

After lunch we were briefed by Howard Hobbs, of Pottsville, Pa., who heads the USO in the European theater. Hobbs, a scholarly-looking six-footer, has two sons in the service and recently saw one of them for the first time in two years. Their meeting was for about ten hours while the boy was passing through Paris on his way to be redeployed in the Pacific with the air corps. He had been in the ETO for twenty-three months and he considered himself one of the lucky ones as he was going to his next war by way of the U. S. A. and could stop off for a short visit home.

While briefing us, Hobbs asked that we go easy on the souvenirs and stick to the smaller stuff. He said, "Please don't try to take back any tanks or volkswagons." What souvenirs some G.Is try to send home to their girls! Every time the infantry hit a German town that had a building standing, they all rushed up and started putting stamps on it.

Chatou really is a wonderful place. All performers are billeted here while they're in Paris. They sit around all the time and hiss each others' scrapbooks. But the native French around here are very happy to have this USO headquarters in Chatou. It raises their morale to have so much ham close by.

Monetary Pact Is Termed Academic As to Methods

By MARK SULLIVAN

Within a few days the Bretton Woods agreements will be adopted by the Senate, probably by a large majority. Having already passed the House, they will become law. The United States will become a member of what is called the International Monetary Fund and International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

For the adoption by the House, and the certain and early adoption by the Senate, the chief reason is support by public opinion, or what is interpreted as public opinion. Senator Wagner, of New York, supporting the agreements, said: "Seldom have I observed a peace-time measure that has been so widely and fairly discussed or so insistently supported by the general public."

Propaganda Used

Opponents and critics of the agreements question whether this support by the general public actually exists, or at least whether the general public has been well and impartially informed. Specifically they state that the public has been subjected to propaganda. Some of this, they charge, has been carried on by the Treasury department. Mr. Taft, of Ohio, read to the Senate a statute which forbids executive departments to use public funds for activities "designed to influence in any manner a member of Congress to favor or oppose . . . any legislation . . . by Congress."

There has also been propaganda by private organizations, some of which presumably acted on their own initiative, others of which may or may not have been inspired by the Treasury department or acted in co-operation with it. That this propaganda by private organizations has been well intended, the present writer is quite sure.

Soon after agitation in behalf of Bretton Woods began, the present writer received, on March 12 last, a letter from an organization whose letter-head described it as the Writers' War Board. The letter-head contained the names of a large number of well-known writers, and the letter was signed by Mr. Clifton Fadiman, familiarly and favorably known to the public as a reviewer of books, and as interlocutor on the very popular radio feature, "Information Please." Mr. Fadiman wrote me, and I presume wrote to other commentators, thus:

Co-operation Urged

"We are impressed by the immediate need for everybody who believes in international co-operation to support the Bretton Woods agreement and urge the passage by Congress . . . It is essential that the American people should be stirred out of their apathy toward the agreements and made to understand their importance . . . You have studied the Bretton Woods agreements and can interpret them in simple personal terms of jobs and pocketbooks. You can explain their relation to world organization for peace. We beg you to discuss this important subject frequently . . ."

Enclosed with the letter, for my convenience, were some mimeographed sheets, upon which I read that "only a handful of representatives and senators know what Bretton Woods is all about"; and which exhorted me to ". . . use all your influence to urge the passage of Bretton Woods without change."

One was moved to admiration. Such busy writers as novelists Fanny Hurst and Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, playwright Oscar Hammerstein II, poetess Edna St. Vincent Millay, and many others, had been able to devote the time and energy necessary to arrive at so complete an understanding of Brton Woods that they felt justified in urging that it be passed without change—even though, as the enclosure in their letter said, "only a handful of representatives and senators know what Bretton Woods is all about."

Purpose Indisputable

About the purpose of Bretton Woods there is no dispute. The purpose is to stabilize international exchange. This means, to insure that, for example, a British pound shall always be worth approximately the same number of American dollars; that it shall not be worth $4 at a given time, and $3 or $5 a few months later; and the same as to currencies of all nations in their relations to each other. This stability is essential to carrying on international trade. That stability should be established and maintained, no reasonable person questions.

The question arises about method. In favor of Bretton Woods is the fact that it was carefully worked out by representatives of many nations. On the other hand, some competent persons say it would be improved by amendments, or even that a materially different method would work better. The debate is now largely academic.

Talk with Molotov By Jap Envoy Is Called Significant

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 18.—A brief dispatch from Tokyo announcing that the Japanese ambassador to Russia had a conference with Foreign Commissar Molotov in Moscow last Wednesday may have transcendent importance.

On the eve of the departure of Marshal Stalin and Mr. Molotov for the "Big Three" meeting in Potsdam, it would be natural for the Japanese government to seek to place its views before that conference if there is at the moment any plan in Japan to arrange a surrender.

Acting Secretary Grew, of the department of State, has publicly discouraged the informal, roundabout peace feeler method of approach. That leaves the direct method. Japan is still at peace with Russia. The Japanese ambassador has unrestricted facilities of communication between Moscow and Tokyo.

Obviously when the Japanese ambassador seeks an audience, it is not because of any routine business. If this were the case, some subordinate in the foreign office at Moscow would attend to it. The meeting must have been important or else Tokyo would not have broadcast tht fact that it occurred.

War Answer, Maybe

The Japanese ambassador, of course, might have sought to learn from Mr. Molotov whether Russia intends to remain neutral or enter the war. The Japanese have been in a quandary about it ever since the fateful day last April when formal notice was given of the intention of Russia to terminate the non-aggression treaty as of April 1946.

The Russians have a huge army on the Manchurian border. The Japanese are maintaining a big army there, too, for protective purposes. If the Japanese have asked about Russia's intentions, it is probable that they have already gotten a committal answer.

Much more plausible, therefore, is the assumption that Russia is playing a vital role in any discussions which Japan may be initiating looking toward an ending of the war. It will be noted that T. V. Soong, premier of China, has been in Moscow for two weeks and has just returned to Chungking. What did he talk about? Probably the territorial re-arrangements which might develop soon in the Far East, especially since it is apparent that Russia wants her maritime provinces and particularly wishes to regain Darien, formerly Port Arthur, a port on the Yellow sea which was wrested from Russia by Japan in the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-1905.

Intimate Talk Proper

It would be quite natural for the head of the Chungking government to have an intimate talk with the Moscow authorities concerning Far Eastern questions at this time because Russia was not a signatory to the Cairo declaration which outlined the aims of Great Britain, China, and the United States with a reference to postwar territorial arrangements in the Far East.

The fact that the northern communist armies in China represent a separate faction inside China which must be consolidated in a military sense with the Chungking armies, at least for the duration of the war against Japan, presents in itself a problem which could hardly be solved without some intimation from Russia as to her attitude, especially since Moscow is known to be on the friendliest terms with the Chinese communists.

With such an important conference going on in Moscow, it is possible that the Japanese ambassador may have done a bit of peace feeling himself with Mr. Soong while the latter was in Moscow. If this war in the Far East is to be settled by a surrender in the immediate future, it may turn out that Moscow was the place and last week was the time when the foundations were laid for the consummation of such an event.

Mediator Role Possible

It must be noted, too, that while the United States and Great Britain can insist on the word "unconditional" as an adjective descriptive of their firm attitude, no such inhibitions need govern Russia which theoretically at least is still neutral and can act as go-between or mediator and even counsellor to both sides. Russian officials may well reason that if they can bring about an ending of the war by means of Japanese surrender at this time, they will spare their own troops further bloodshed and be portrayed in the world as a nation whose basic purpose is the achievement of peace.

The test, of course, is what happens to Japan and the only basis for a settlement, no matter by what phrase it is described, is that the Japanese people must know and the Far Eastern peoples must know that the Japanese army, navy and air forces have been completely and decisively beaten.

LISTEN WORLD!

ANY FOOL, TALKING TO HIMSELF

Well! I've done it again—Made a fool of myself—After all the messes! After all the lessons! I would.

Didn't mean to, of course—Did my darndest not to—staked all I had on the play; shot the works—thought at last I was playing right—thought for once I was showing sense—and now, see!

In it again—cleaned out again—played for a sucker once more. But doggoned if I'm going to squeal, chew my nails, or get gummed up with self-pity! I did it, so that's that! But what if I did? Suppose I have lost—as the world sees it—s'pose I have been taken for a ride—I'm still not licked unless I think I am!

For, after all, it isn't the outside loss that counts it's how I feel about the thing inside myself. whether I, myself, feel wiped out or not—AND I DON'T!

The world sees a fellow who's lost but I see a fellow who's won, and here's why.

Here's the dope, the true dope about me, myself, that only I, myself, am hep to. Naturally I'm cowardly, lazy, conceited—don't like to make decisions—'stoo much work, and I'm afraid of being hurt, being laughed at. Naturally, I'd rather duck, crawl outta things, find excuses for not playing—that's the kind of a guy I really am yet I didn't let that stop me!

Even though I'm all those things, including plenty dumb, I went ahead and took a chance! Made a decision even though it was a bum one—but I made one, anyway!

So what? So why should I feel licked? I'm not! No matter what the world thinks, I'm a winner! No matter what I've lost outside, I'm richer and stronger and wiser inside.

Let it laugh—T'ell with the world! Let it preach! I know what I know, I've been sold out but I haven't sold myself out. I've lost money, time and tears, but I haven't lost what it takes!

Selling Wanes in Stock Market But Many Leaders Extend Decline

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP) — Selling waned in today's stock market and assorted rallying strength appeared but many leaders extended their sharp decline of the previous session.

Transfers of 1,450,000 shares compared with 1,560,000 in Tuesday's break.

Numerous customers continued to lighten accounts for protection should the Japanese suddenly cave under the growing Allied smash and accentuate domestic economic transition difficulties.

American Car and Foundry enjoyed a late bulge on a lifted dividend and ended with an advance of two points. Electric Power and Light was a feature performer, jumping 2⅜ to 12½, a 1945 peak, partly in response to a substantial increase in net income. In front were Bethlehem, Chrysler, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Montgomery Ward, Johns-Manville and Pan American Airways.

On the offside were American Telephone, Great Northern, General Motors, United States Steel, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Boeing, Texas Company and International Harvester.

Ahead in the curb were Electric Bond and Share, Aiereon Manufacturing, Solar Aircraft and Niagara Hudson Power. Turnover here was 380,000 shares versus 430,000 the day before.

Recovery forces were at work in some parts of the bond market today, but the main corporate list was still under enough selling pressure to slat the general trend lower.

There was less activity than in the preceding session with sales at $7,500,000 against $8,452,000.

United States governments were about steady.

Now that gas restrictions are being eased . . .
can your car take it?

Even though your car seems to be in good running condition today, remember that it's now an OLD car!
Now that more gas is being made available, permitting more normal driving, many a motorist will be in for a rude awakening.
Even though you don't suspect it, your steering mechanism may be dangerously worn, right now. Your brakes may not be equal to sudden hard stops.
Sludge—that gummy deposit resulting from wartime driving conditions—may be clogging your engine's oil line, fouling piston rings, gumming up valves, and gradually ruining costly bearings. And even slightly faster driving speeds can double that damage!
So be wise! Let your Packard dealer check your car for little troubles that may develop into BIG ones without warning.
A check-up today may prevent a serious accident in the months ahead—and spending a few dollars to remove sludge can well save you several hundred in future repair bills.
SAVE A CAR SAVE A CAR

Ask the man who owns one . . . When new cars come back again, here's something to keep in mind: A wartime car-owner survey shows that Packard cars, among all those studied, have stood up better—required less frequent repairs—and Packard owners have spent less on service.

Moorefield Lions To Sponsor Paper Drive Saturday

By KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., July 18—The Moorefield Lions Club will sponsor a community-wide salvage paper drive Sunday afternoon, July 22, and as previously announced, the funds from the drive will be given the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company to be applied to the remodeling of the town hall.

The Boy Scouts Troop will assist in announcing the drive and all are urged to have paper out by 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Herbert Frazier, professor of economics at Swarthmore college, Swarthmore, Pa., who is spending some time camping at Cabins, spoke to the group on the subject, "Winning the Peace with the Atlantic Nation's Charter."

It was decided the next meeting, to be held the first week in August, would be a picnic at the River park.

Enrollment for County 4-H camp, which will be held at Camp Pinnacle, near Wardensville, from July 23 to 28, is larger this year than has been for several years.

Camp leaders this year are S. L. Dodd, county agent; J. D. Anderson, soil conservationist; Miss [illegible] Boggs, state camp leader; Miss Pauline Hawse and Mrs. Velda Shipe Keller, 4-H club leaders, and Miss Laura Caldwell, 4-H club agent.

A full schedule has been worked out by the leaders which includes work, play and rest for everyone. Among the classes offered are charting, pre-charting, 4-H information, nature, friends of the land (conservation), music, ropework, woodwork, weaving, hobbies and tool identification.

The daily schedule is as follows: 6:45, rising whistle; 7, flag raising and morning thought; 7:15, breakfast; 7:45, tribal duties; 8:15, classes, first period; 9:15, second period classes; 10:15, mid-morning snack; 10:30, craft classes; 11:30, assembly; 12:15, lunch; 1, rest; 2, tribal meetings; 2:45-4:45, recreation; 4:45, tribal duties; 5:30, dinner; 6:30, surprise; 715, vespers; 8, council circle; 10, lights out.

A weekend camp beginning Saturday evening, July 21, will be attended by the past chiefs, who plan to attend the regular camp this summer, and chiefs of 1945. These are the older 4-H club members who were unable to attend the older youths' camp at Jackson's Mill in June. At this weekend camp the plans will be completed and a tribal system will be set up for the entire camp week. This short period of training will be under the direction of Mrs. Verdie Teets, Miss Laura Caldwell and S. L. Dodd. Miss Kerr will be present at this time to give special training in music and recreation.

Tries To Escape

William Henry Long who is being held in Mineral county jail charged with the theft of a watch and money from Franklin Bennet, made an attempt to escape.

Except in extreme cases the prisoners have the run of the corridors of the jail, through the day. Long took an iron hoop from the wringer of a mop bucket and fashioned it into a device which he used to loosen the bricks of an outside wall. When his attempt was discovered he had succeeded in removing several bricks from the inner course. A little more time would have permitted the removal of the outer bricks and his escape would have been accomplished. He is now in solitary confinement.

CHICAGO, July 18. (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers exploded old Lon Warneke's comeback attempt, 9-5, after the league-leading Chicago Cubs triumphed 5-0 in the opener of a twin bill today witnessed by the largest week day crowd at Wrigley field in fifteen years, 42,047 paid fans.

The split left the Bruins three and a half games ahead of the third-place Dodgers and three games ahead of the second-spot St. Louis Cardinals, who faced the Philadelphia Phils in a doubleheader tonight.

Warneke, making his first start since September, 1943 and the first of five Cub pitchers, was charged with the defeat.

Manager Leo (Lippy) Durocher of the Dodgers was chased from the field by Umpire Ziggy Sears for over-zealous protest against a time-out called in the first inning of the finale.

In the opener Ray Prim hurled his second straight shutout and permitted only one Dodger to advance past second. Prim, who scattered seven hits, blanked Boston with a four-hitter last Friday. It was Chicago's seventh triumph in nineteen starts. The box:

By C. V. BURNS

Remember Norman "Farmer" Eshelman, mascot and handyman of the Cumberland Colts in 1931 and 1932?

Well, the question "What happened to "Farmer?" came up during a fanning bee with Leo Mackey, Colts' manager of those years, at Stitcher field on Monday.

The Pittsburgh Pirate scout says the last he heard from "Farmer" was in 1937.

"I was managing Akron at that time and I sent a letter to 'Farmer' at his home near Chambersbburg, Pa., requesting him to report to me in the Ohio city," Mackey related. "I also inclosed railroad fare to Akron."

Leo said he waited patiently for the arrival of his private mascot but "Farmer" failed to show up. However, he did receive a letter from Eshelman, who informed his boss that he followed instructions and got to Akron by train but a "couple big guys" met him near the station and told him he'd better get back on the train or else he might get hulrt.

So "Farmer" got scared and returned home immediately by train.

Mackey recalled that there was a big strike in the rubber industry in Akron at the time and "Farmer" evidently was mistaken for a strike-breaker and threatened with the heave-ho when he arrived.

"Farmer" was mascot for teams managed by Mackey for seven years. He started out with Leo when the latter piloted Chambersburg in the old Blue Ridge League and later served in Cumberland, Butler and McKeesport.

In his farewell talk to the boys who gathered here for the Pittsburgh baseball school, Monday and Tuesday, Mackey tossed a few orchids at Michael Aloysius (Call Me Al) Martin, the retired newspaper copy boy, who was quite active in the workouts at North End.

"You gotta hand it to 'Wishy' for he saved the day," Mackey remarked.

When the school opened there were no bases on the field.

"I know where I can get some bags," Martin volunteered. "Wait until that boy comes back with the bicycle and I'll get the bases."

"Wishy" saw to it that the bases were brought to the diamond and placed.

You should have seen Martin's chest expand when Leo cited him for meritorious service.

"If it wasn't for Al we would have had to use rocks for bases," Mackey asserted.

After witnessing the fielding and pitching drills Monday and the twelve-inning game Tuesday, we thought the outstanding prospects were:

Sam Wright, third baseman, and Paul Sivak, shortstop, both of the Patuxent river section of Southern Maryland; David Rose, shortstop, of the Centerville Reds of the Pen-Mar League; Jimmy Schramm, outfielder from Lonaconing; Jimmy Lease, outfielder, of Gephart; Allen Steiner, outfielder-pitcher, of Hancock; Jimmy Garland, pitcher, from Arlington, Va.; Robert Workman, pitcher, of Frostburg; Robert Blair, Midland pitcher; Johnny Waltman, the 15-year-old curve ball artist of the South End Cleaners in the Midget League, and Pat Creegan, the little Southpaw from North End.

Some of the boys are just a bit too young for the Pirates to pick up at the present time but you can bet the Pittsburgh club will keep an eye on them.

Scout Joe Brehany, of the Pirates, viewed the two-day school as a success. "The thing that I am most thankful for is that nobody got hurt on that terrible field," Joe declared.

Johnny Byrnes, the Eckhart grocer, who was guardian of the initial sack for the Cumberland Colts from 1922 to 1930, didn't arrive in time for Tuesday's game but he had a lengthy chat with Mackey and Brehany. Johnny spiked the rumor that he was here for the purpose of asking for a tryout. The one-time Dobbin star attributed his loss of weight to the fact that he isn't able to get enough red points. He also put in Eckhart's bid for the 1946 Pirates' baseball school but Frostburg looks like the site if Cumberland doesn't wake up.

It reminded one of a George's Creek reunion when the Brehanys, the Cavans, the Goodrichs and the Creegan got their heads together on the sidelines. The only Pekin or Midland native of note not present was former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan.

According to Greg Johnson, race expert, all attendance and wagering records dating back to Hagerstown's first meeting in 1929 were shattered during the first five days' racing last week. The mutuel handle for that period was $222,825 above last year. The first week's banner day was Saturday when the wagering amounted to $257,759, or $38,825 above the total of the fifth day in 1944.

Hagerstown's $257,759 handle on Saturday tops all wagering at Cumberland in 1944 with the exception of the tenth and final day when the Fairgo betting was $267,766. Wagering here for the ten days last year was $2,136,926, an all-time high.

Claude Feltner, one of the more capable younger trainers developed during recent years, has been rejected for the third time by the army. The Virginian is now at the Garden State Park track, Camden, N. J., following an examination at Camp Lee. He was just a little fellow stringing along with the stable when his daddy first brought horses to Fairgo back in the late 1920's. The Feltners seldom miss a Cumberland meeting and they have brought as many as fifteen horses here at one time. Claude saddled nine winners at Fairgo in 1942.

BOSTON, July 18 (AP)—Two freaky breaks cheated Dave (Boo) Ferriss out of his sixth shutout today as he gained his sixteenth win of his freshman season by pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 6-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Ferriss had the Chisox blanked with one out in the ninth. Then Johnny Dickshot and Tony Cuccinello singled. After Oris Hockett fouled out, Cass Michaels popped in short right and Dickshot scored as it landed safely. Cuccinello countered when Mike Tresh's grounder hit a pebble and bounced over Eddie Lake's head.

Dietrich gave way to a pinch-hitter in the fifth and was replaced by southpaw Frank Papish, who held the Bosox to one hit over the last four innings. The box:

Benton's shutout was scored over Marino Pieretti against whom Benton sustained his only defeat in a 1-0 duel in Detroit early in the season.

Post Says Shed Belongs to City

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that the shed in the vicinity of Memorial hospital, which James H. Dean, 606 Ridgewood avenue, termed unsightly belongs to the hospital and the city.

The mayor said the building, erected by John I. Vandegrift in 1942 when the contracting firm was erecting an addition to the hospital, is useful to the city and that if Vandegrift needs it in connection with present hospital work he will be allowed to use it rather than to have another erected.

The mayor added that hospital officials may consider painting the shed to make it more presentable.

NBA Rates Moore Logical Contender To Gus Lesnevich

Missouri Negro Is Placed Second among Light Heavyweights

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Three championships fights are in the making to climax the outdoor season, Abe J. Greene, president of the National Boxing Association, said today.

In announcing the quarterly NBA ratings, Greene said that Sal Bartola, featherweight; Ike Williams, lightweight, and Manuel Ortiz, bantam, probably will defend their respective titles shortly. Ortiz recently was released from the army.

In addition, Freddie "Red" Cochrane, welter champion, has "virtually signed" for a bout with Ray "Sugar" Robinson, a leading contender, Greene said.

California promoters are seeking a lightweight title bout between Williams and his closest rival, Willie Joyce.

Greene hailed Cochrane's recent good showing against Rocky Graziano in the welter king's first real test since his discharge from the armed forces, as "heartening to other veteran champions" now in service, including Joe Louis, heavyweight; Gus Lesnevich, light heavy, and Tony Zale, middleweight.

One of the principal changes in the ratings is that of Archie Moore, Missouri Negro, to a position of "logical contender" to Lesnevich in the light heavy division.

The ratings:

Heavyweight—Champion, Joe Louis, army; logical contenders, Billy Conn, army; outstanding boxers, Jimmy Bivins, Ohio; Melio Bettina, army; Tami Mauriello, New York; Joe Baksi, Pennsylvania; Lee Oma, Michigan; Elmer Ray, Florida; Johnny Flynn, army.

Light Heavyweight—Champion, Gus Lesnevich, coast guard; logical contender, Archie Moore, Missouri; Freddie Mills, England.

Middleweight—Champion, Tony Zale, navy; logical contenders, George Abrams, navy; Jacob La Motta, New York; Holman Williams, Michigan; Charlie Burley, Pennsylvania; Jose Basora, Puerto Rico; Joe Carter, New York.

Welterweight—Champion, Freddie Red Cochrane, New Jersey; logical contenders, Ray Robinson, New York; Rocky Graziano, New York.

Lightweight—Champion, Ike Williams, New Jersey; logical contenders, Beau Jack, army; Bob Montgomery, army; Willie Joyce, Illinois; Bobby Ruffin, New York.

Featherweight—Champion, Sal Bartola, maritime service; logical contender, Willie Pep, Connecticut.

Bantamweight—Champion, Manuel Ortiz, California; logical contenders, Kui Kong Young, Hawaii; Tony Olivera, California.

Flyweight—Champion, Jackie Patterson, England; logical contenders, Joe Curran, England; Dado Marino, Hawaii; Norman Lewis, England.

McClung Tosses One-hit Contest, Eagles Win, 4-0

Orndorff's Tenth Inning Double Gives Lacy's 4 to 2 Triumph

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
Eagles 4, West Side 0
Lacy's 4, Concord 2 (10 innings)
Fisher-Robinette 7, Williams Street 0
(Won by forfeit)
Others not scheduled.

A one-hit pitching masterpiece by "Buck" McClung coupled with a timely single by Poffenberger which netted two runs in the fourth inning featured the Eagles' 4 to 0 triumph over the West Side Merchants in a City Softball League game yesterday on Fort Hill field.

The conquest enabled Manager Bob Chisholm's outfit to increase its league lead to two full games over the Concord Clothiers, West Side and Lacy's, the trio being tied for second place as a result of the Delicatet's 4 to 2 victory over Concord in ten innings yesterday on Taylor field.

Two Get On Base

Only twenty-three batsmen faced McClung as the Eagles rolled on to their eighth victory in nine starts and only two West Siders reached first base—P. Fisher on a single in the fourth and Palmer, who walked in the seventh. The Eagles' ace fanned a half dozen.

Taylor pitched well for the Merchants but lost his own game in the fourth when three walks followed by "Pete" Howarth's fly netted one run and Poffenberger singled to send over two more tallies. Pinsky's single, Rowan's error on Dean's bunt and "Yump" Field's double produced the final run in the seventh. The game was played in the fast time of one hour. Yesterday's win was the thirteenth in fourteen starts for the Eagles this season.

Orndorff Is Hero

"Bee" Orndorff's double scored the two runs that broke a 2-2 deadlock and gave Lacy's Delicatets a 4-2 decision over the Concord Clothiers on Taylor field. After Miller singled Hawse sacrificed and reached base on an error. Then Orndorff came through with the pay-off wallop, his second two-bagger of the contest. Keller's triple was the longest hit of the battle. J. Brown accounted for three of the Clothiers' seven hits.

Fisher and Robinette won by forfeit from Williams Street Merchants when the latter team was unable to muster enough players.

Americans Seek Ryder Cup Matches Annually

CLEVELAND, July 18 (AP)—America's golfers would like to revive the Ryder cup matches with Great Britain's best in 1946 and prefer to meet their across-the-seas rivals annually instead of every two years.

Craig Wood, captain of the American professional squad, President Ed Dudley of the Professional Golfers Association and Fred Corcoran, PGA tournament manager, said they planned soon to get in touch with British officials in an attempt to set a date for the resumption of play.

The rivalry started in 1927 when Samuel Ryder of Great Britain, donated the trophy. Six matches have been held, with the United States victor in four. The 1939 contest, scheduled for Pont Vedra, Fla., was not held because of the war. The United States team won in 1937.

Back Injury Will Keep Nelson Out of Tourney

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 18 (AP)—Golfdom's big money winner, Byron Nelson of Toledo, today bowed out of the St. Paul open tournament because of a back injury suffered in a recent driving contest.

Nelson came here from Sioux City, Ia., where he shot a 68 in an exhibition to undergo examination by Mayo clinic physicians. Reports on the examination were not available but Nelson told tournament officials that it would be impossible for him to take part in the quest for $10,000 worth of war bonds.

Mericelli To Fight Long in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — Fernando (The Mighty) Menichelli, the transplanted Argentinian heavyweight boxer, will meet Louis Long, of Chicago, here Monday in the ten-round feature match at the Coliseum.

Menichelli, who lost a decision to Long in Boston some time ago, went over big with local fans when he held the sensational teen-age Akron, Ohio, slugger, Freddie Schott, to a ten round draw.

The Chicago boy in his only other Baltimore showing lost a close battle to Johnny Allen, the capable Philadelphian.

Pirates Skid into Second Division By Losing Double Header to Giants

New Yorkers Take Fourth Place by Bagging 6-3 and 4-3 Decisions

PITTSBURGH, July 18 (AP) — The New York Giants shoved Pittsburgh back into the second division and moved into fourth place today on a double triumph over the Pirates, 6-3 in the opener on Danny Gardella's three-run homer, and 4-3 in the nightcap on Manager Mel Ott's two-run single in the eighth.

Jack Brewer and Preacher Roe were hooked up in a scoreless duel in the first six frames of the first tilt but the Giants scored in the seventh added three in the eighth on Gardella's ninth, round tripped and picked up two more in the ninth.

Whitey Lockman contributed four hits to the Giants' 15-blow assault on Max Butcher and Ken Gables in the finale but it was Ott's blow scoring George Hausmann and Lockman in the eighth that told the story. The box:

Insurance Issue Will Be Debated At Radio Forum

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—America's Town Meeting goes to Chautauqua, N. Y., for its broadcast of Thursday night—as usual 8:30 on ABC. The debate will have to do with whether Congress should provide health and old age insurance for all.

On the "against" side will be Dr. Morris Fishbein, of the American Medical Association, and DeWitt Emery, president of the National Small Business Men's Association. On the "for" are Rep. John D. Dingel, of Michigan, and William Green, president of AFL.

Commentator Earl Godwin gets back on the ABC network at 8:15 with another commentary series. That is a new time, in addition to the fact he has a different sponsor.

In expectation of a full night of drama—there's a lot of it on the air these days—here are a few of the things available for the tuning in:

CBS 8—Suspense, Bonita Granville in "Bank Holiday," all about a robbery.

MBS 10—Arch Oboler Play, "Special Hollywood," with a War bond theme.

NBC 10—Mysteries in the Air, "The Case of the Headless Corporal."

NBC 10:30—Freedom drama "We Came This Way," Victor Hugo and his experiences in France.

E. E. (Edward Everett) Horton continues his operation of the Bing Crosby Music hall with such guests as Jo Stafford, Pearl Bailey and Elton Britt, all singers of one type or another. The show's on NBC at 9.

Germans Held Chinese

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — Sixteen Chinese seamen, flown here from German prison camps, said they had been forced to work on German ships sailing between Hamburg and Magdeburg. The Chinese spoke no English but most of them conversed fluently in pidgin German.

The Japs who tried to take over Asia found out, too late, that this isn't such a small world, after all.

Aviation Company Head Is Invited To Explain Terms Of Port Proposal

Airport Committee and City Council Agree Airport Should Be Leased to Responsible Firm

At a joint meeting of the mayor and city council and the Cumberland Airport Committee last night it was decided that the Cumberland airport should be leased providing that a satisfactory agreement can be reached with a responsible lessee.

The group, which held a dinner meeting at Central YMCA at 6:15 p. m. yesterday, agreed to invite W. J. Graham, president of the Graham Aviation Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., to come to Cumberland for a preliminary discussion of the terms of a proposed contract under which the airport would be leased to his company for a term of three and a half years.

No date was set for the discussion meeting, although it was suggested that it should be held the first week in August. Graham submitted his proposal to the Airport committee June 29.

Agree on Amendments

The mayor and city council agreed with the airport committee that the city should not be deprived of rental during the trial period of three and a half years proposed by Graham. They seconded the suggestion of Edmund S. Burke, chairman of the committee, that compensation to the city in rental fees should be based on gross receipts and not on net profits.

At a meeting of the airport committee July 11, Burke said that the city should not commit future municipal administrations to the liability of buying buildings to be erected by the company, if satisfactory terms for extending the lease are not arranged at the end of the trial period.

Charles Z. Heskett, airport director, pointed out last night that the burden of selling the buildings would be unfair to Graham if the lease was not renewed. Burke suggested that a compromise agreement might be reached to enable Graham to sell the buildings at depreciative cost or less to a purchaser approved of by the city.

Pointing out that the public will become increasingly airminded after the war, when discharged pilots return home, Heskett said that at the end of three and a half years the city might not wish to renew the lease for the additional seventeen years proposed by Graham, since by that time the city might be able to take over the airport.

Stating that eleven private planes use the facilities of the airport now, Heskett predicted that as many as 200 private passenger planes may be based there in three and a half years.

Other amendments suggested by the committee and approved by the mayor and city council included payment by the company for electricity used at the airport, and making the company responsible for cutting grass and removing snow at the airport.

Oscar Gurley, a member of the committee, said that Fred Otts, president of the Otts Aircraft Corporation, Bloomfield, N. J., has also been invited to submit a proposal to the committee for leasing the airport.

Meeting Planned

H. W. Smith, acting secretary of the committee, was instructed to send a written invitation to officials of Pan Maryland Airways, Baltimore, to come to Cumberland Wednesday, July 25, for a meeting with the committee and city council in the mayor's office at city hall at 1:30 p. m.

The company has offered to establish an airline service operating between Cumberland and other cities within the state, using small passnger planes carrying four or five passengers.

Smith announced yesterday that the Civil Aeronautics Board will concuct a hearing December 3 to consider the application of United Air Lines for service to Cumberland.

He said he received a letter from R. E. Robeson, special representative of the market research department of the company, stating that November 1 is the deadline for exchanging exhibits and November 20 the deadline for rebuttal.

Besides Burke, Heskett and Smith, those attending last night's meeting were Mayor Thomas S. Post; Commissioners Hunter B. Helfrich, William E. McDonald, William J. Edwards and James Orr; and Dr. C. C. Zimmerman, Oscar Gurley and T. Donald Shires, representing the Airport committee.

Severe Rainstorm Strikes One Mile West of Hancock

A severe rainstorm, described by some residents as a "cloudburst" struck Washington county, one mile west of Hancock, at the Cohill orchards about 6 o'clock yesterday and continued for an hour.

Roger Cohill described it as the "hardest rain we've had in years", but said he did not think there was much damage. Small streams overflowed and Route 40 was clogged with rubbish in some places. However, state road crews soon were on the job and traffic proceeded at a normal pace.

Navy Needs More WAVEs

WAVEs are the number one procurement need of the navy recruiting service at the present time, according to notification received by the local station from Baltimore.

The announcement stated that the need is caused by the increased tempo of the Pacific war. More than 250 jobs in the navy are being handled by WAVE personnel.

Women between the ages of 20 and 36 with at least two years of high school and business school training are eligible for enlistment.

Additional information may be obtained at the local naval recruiting station, room 312, Post Office building.

Allegany County Tax Collections Increase $50,487

Collection of county taxes in Allegany county as of July 1 amounted to $1,100,435.84, an increase of $50,487 over last year, Tax Collector Alban C. Thompson announced yesterday.

The collection of state taxes amounted to $51,345.37, an increase of $4,290 over the preceding year.

Total collections last year were: county tax, $1,049,948.91 and state tax, $47,055.42.

This year's increase was attributed to the nine cent increase on county taxes by the county treasurer who said that the total collection to date represents approximately eighty-five per cent.

The June collection discount on county taxes amounted to $55,021.79, the treasurer said.

Power of Zoning Appeals Board To Be Tested

Circuit Court Will Hear an Appeal Case Brought by James Messick

An appeal that will provide the first test for the authority of the Cumberland Board of Zoning Appeals since it was established by city ordinance last Nov. 27 will be heard this morning in circuit court by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

The appeal was filed last month by James L. Messick, trading as the Co-operative Ice and Fuel Company, 300 block Frederick street, against the members of the board, Thomas Lohr Richards, George H. Tederick and Bruce D. Smith, asking a court review of the adverse decision.

Messick engaged in business at 361 Frederick street and filed a petition with the board to transfer the business to 359 Frederick street, a property owned by his father, Edgar E. Messick, and occupied by William A. Shipway, who is engaged in the trucking business.

D. Lindley Sloan and William A. Gunter, attorneys for Messick, said he planned to enlarge the building at 359 Frederick street in order to provide a cold storage plant in connection with his ice factory.

Members of the board have resigned, effective July 1, stating they are unable to devote sufficient time to their duties. They will appear in court tomorrow, however, since the petition is based on action taken while they were serving. City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett and other city officials will also attend the hearing in court.

Demurrer Filed

Harry I. Stegmaier, attorney for Raymond E. Madden and his wife, Mrs. Rosalia E. Madden, filed a demurrer to the equity action instituted by Mrs. Bertha A. Imes, in a dispute over a property in North Cumberland.

The attorney denied that Mrs. Imes is entitled to relief, on the basis of the bill of complaint filed by her counsel, Forrest Brown and Albert A. Doub, Jr., and asserted that they failed to state that she is mentally incapable of executing a valid deed or legal document.

Mrs. Imes charged fraud was exercised by the couple and that they induced her to buy a property at 612 Holland street for $10,400 of which they put up only $200, and she paid the balance. Mrs. Imes charged that she later discovered that the deed showed the couple took a two-third interest in the property.

Sgt. John Reinhart Is Home on Leave

Staff Sgt. John L. Reinhart, whose group in the Twelfth air force won the Presidential Citation for checking the Germans at Kasserine Pass, has arrived home on furlough after thirty months of foreign service.

Sgt. Reinhart, 11 South Lee street, is a member of the Ninety-seventh Bombardment Squadron, Forty-seventh Group, of the Twelfth air force where he served as supply sergeant to a squadron.

His tour of duty included the Tunisian, Italian and European campaigns and he wears eight battle stars, the Presidential citation, the Good Conduct Medal and the European theater ribbon.

Sgt. Reinhart's group of A-20 light bombers received signal commendation for its work in blasting German positions at the battle of Kasserine Pass, one of the bitterest conflicts of the war. His group is the oldest group in point of service in the Twelfth air force. The group has an average of 112 points per man and Sgt. Reinhart has 109 points.

After visiting his father, Joseph H. Reinhart, his brother, James B. Reinhart, and other relatives and friends, Sgt. Reinhart expects to report to a South Carolina base for future orders.

Local Delegation Attends National War Fund Meeting in Hagerstown

Five Cumberland representatives attended this week's meeting of the National War Fund Campaign at Hagerstown where members heard an appeal for funds for the purpose of developing the Girl Scout movement in the outlying sections of the various counties in the state.

As explained at the meeting, a small donation to each county would enable the Girl Scout organiation to employ two field workers who would, in the case of Allegany county, organize troops in the smaller communities and rural areas away from the larger towns. The great need for this type of work was stressed in the appeal.

In a similar appeal, the children's Aid Society, of Baltimore, asked for $500 for each county in the state to broaden the scope of the society in reaching out into outlying areas in the various counties.

Cumberlanders who attended the session were William C. Walsh, H. W. Smith, Henry Price, Mrs. Gerard Everstine and Mrs. Ann Everline. Prominent among those present were Raymond Funkhouser, who was a candidate in the last gubernatorial race in West Virginia, Victor Rule, state representative of the National War Fund Campaign and James M. Hebrun, also of the War Fund organization.

Three speakers who gave talks were Madam Liu, wife of one of China's most prominent generals who spoke on "China Relief", Dr. John Cotton, head of the War Prisoners Aid Fund, who spoke on his tour of duty in belligerent countries, and Miss Honey McKenzie, of the USO Camp shows.

At business meetings, the members discussed the forthcoming fall campaign. A national goal of $115,000,000, the same as last year, has been set. It was emphasized that the organization would be disbanded as quickly as possible once hostilities cease.

Drunken and Reckless Driving Charges Cost Wiley Ford Man $112.20

A Wiley Ford, W. Va., driver who became "lost" on the West Side Tuesday evening paid fines and costs totaling $112.20 after he was convicted, at hearings before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., in trial magistrates court yesterday, of charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and of reckless driving.

Officer John W. Snyder, who preferred charges, said that Alfred Shrout, operating his car without lights, sped out of Walnut place into Greene street and drove into Millman place, narrowly averting a collision with a car driven on Greene street by John T. Creegan, 719 Gephart drive.

The local officer followed Shrout into Millman place and ordered the Wiley Ford man out of the car. Shrout, who at first refused to get out, saying he was "only lost", almost fell to the ground due to his intoxicated condition, Officer Snyder added.

Creegan and Thomas Davis, West Side fireman, testified that Shrout was drunk.

Returns to States

Pvt. Oscar Willard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Willard, 409 Grand avenue, has arrived in the United States from Italy, according to word received by his parents. He will be hospitalized and given a medical discharge before returning home.

Closed Shop Issue Still Delays End Of Taxicab Strike

The closed shop issue was still the stumbling block last evening toward the settlement of the strike of Astor Cab Company drivers who, union officials said, walked out early Saturday evening after company officials failed to act on a number of accumulated grievances.

Free emergency service was inaugurated yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock but company officials said the requests for service was "light."

A company spokesman said the service is available for all cases of actual emergency such as trips to and from local hospitals and physician's offices. Since only one cab is available, only urgent requests can be honored, he added. The taxi firm is furnishing the cab while the union provides drivers and switchboard operators.

Drivers, members of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, met yesterday at noon, and still insisted on a closed shop because, union officals said, the men feel the company has discriminated against union members.

A company official declared last evening the Astor Cab Company is "standing pat" upon its demand that the union fulfill its contract which is valid until January 31, 1946.

Elliott Leaves Hospital

Pfc. John Addison Purucker, Cumberland marine, has been wounded on an undisclosed front, according to a War department release. He is the husband of Mrs. Edith R. Purucker, 1801 Bedford street.

Book on Federal Benefits for Vets Arrives at Library

It took two army colonels to provide the right book at the right time for the growing number of discharged G.I.'s who are now engaged in making the transition from soldier to civilian.

The new book is No. 1 on the new list of books now available at the Cumberland Free Public Library and Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, is hopeful that the new volume will be useful to the discharged soldiers. (Twenty-five Alleganians have been discharged so far this month).

Written by Col. M. A. Erma and Lt. Col. Arthur Symons, the book is a complete guide to all federal benefits, including bonus, insurance, loans, schooling and pensions. If a vet has any questions he wants answered, this book will do it for him.

Maudlin Has New Book

Another new book now on the library shelf is Bill Maudlin's "Up Front"—the complete series of cartoons about the ordinary dirt soldiers Ernie Pyle wrote about. Bill's laconic, hollow-eyed infantrymen have long been regarded by ground troops as the tops in expressing just how a G.I. in the front lines feels and looks.

The third new book dealing with the services is the "Airman's Almanac of 1945" edited by Francis Walton which names the airports of the world, world aviation organizations, airlines of the world and the outline of aviation law. The work is fully indexed.

Other Books Received

A fourth new book Miss Walsh heartily endorses is the volume "Building or Buying a House" by Kenneth Johnstone and other well-known American architects. Cumberland people waiting for the day when building materials will be made available and priorities a thing of the past will find this one interesting for it takes up the whole problem from financing on.

Fifth on Miss Walsh's list is Harland Manchester's "The New World of Machines" which describes radar, television, high octane gas, artificial rubber, plastics and many other scientific discoveries in vivid and non-technical language. It also gives a slant on what to expect in the scientific and machine world after the war.

The other three books on the new list include "Fashion Is Our Business" by Beryl Williams, a volume describing the careers of famous American designers. "The Musical Scene" by Virgil Thomson, the musical life of America as seen by the music critic of the New York Herald Tribune, and "A. Woollcott, His Life and His World", by Samuel Hopkins Adams, a biography of the eccentric newspaperman who eventually became one of the foremost radio commentators.

That's the crop for this month at the public library.

OPA Postpones Car Repair Regulation

Notices have been sent to the fifty-four automotive repair dealers of Allegany county that the effective date of SSR 49 to RMPR 165, regulation on repair prices of vehicles, has been postponed until September 1.

The regulation, which lists specific charges for all services performed by automobile repair dealers, was originally issued as effective July 10, according to attaches of War Price and Rationing Board No. 231.1.

Investigate Intrusions

Police are investigating a complaint by Clarence E. Hook, Fulton street, a B. and O. fireman, that his home is being mistaken for a house of bad repute on another street. The two houses have the same number.

Hook complained to Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday of the situation, stating that visitors come to the house at all hours, some of which time he is not at home.

He stated that his wife and six children, ranging from three to nineteen years of age, are often frightened. They have been saved from further trouble, Hook said, by the family dog.

Beacham Recommended for Place On Planning and Appeals Board

Members of the Cumberland Real Estate Board have recommended James W. Beacham, local realtor and an appraiser for the Veterans Administration, for appointment to the Municipal Zoning and Planning Appeals Board, it was learned yesterday.

The recommendation was made to Mayor Thomas S. Post who said last night that he had the matter under advisement and that in all probability the appointment of three members to the board would be considered at next week's meeting of the mayor and city council.

The former members of the appeals board resigned effective July 1 on the grounds that the job took too much of their time. Consequently, a complete new board is due to be appointed next week.

The appeals board members sit in on all appeals on regulations governing the municipal zoning and planning ordinance. For this reason, the board members play an important part in matters concerning the development of the city.

The realtors also announced that they are now working out a plan whereby the membership of the real estate board would be extended to include a larger cross section of local business and professional men who are interested in the real estate business.

Lions Hear Lewis Describe His Life In German Camps

First Lt. Joseph F. Lewis, a recently liberated navigator of a B-17 with the Third army, described his experiences as a German prisoner at the luncheon meeting of the Lions Club yesterday at the Central YMCA.

Lewis said that his ship blew up under him over Calais, France, while he was on his sixteenth mission. He and the bombardier parachuted to safety in a muddy field, passing the tail of their ship on the way down.

They were captured and placed in solitary confinement at the German area headquarters at Lille, France, before being moved to Frankfort-on-Main. While there, Lewis related, they were fed for four days on thin soup and black bread, part of which they ate and the rest they used as fuel for their stove.

The airmen were soon moved to Stalag 3, between Berlin and Breslau, where they were held with 800 British and American airmen. Eighty British airmen made a break and fifty were shot by the Gestapo in nearby towns.

The captives received meat once every three weeks and Red Cross parcels were delivered until the German transportation system broke down. During their thirteen-month stay at the camp, they amused themselves with art displays and plays, the costumes for which could be had from a Berlin outfitter for 30,000 marks each. They also played ice hockey with German teams.

In January they were marched to a camp near Munich as the Russians approached. Soon thereafter, Lewis said, they could hear American artillery fire and were released by the approaching army.

Lt. Lewis's father, Bernard F. Lewis, 840 Gephart drive, and brother, Robert E. Lewis, were among the guests. Other guests were Richard Leonard, who recently returned from State department duty in Africa, the Rev. Lee Mortzfeldt, Lexington, Va., David Steele and Lee Silcox.

Chester Fisher had charge of the program for the meeting.

William See Receives Suspended Sentence On Disorderly Charge

William See, 23, Irons Mountain, received a suspended sentence of sixty days in the county jail after he was convicted, at a hearing in trial magistrates court yesterday, of a charge of disorderly conduct on a public highway.

Attaches said See and a group of companions several days ago smeared lipstick over the faces of several boys and that one of the boys was pulled off his bicycle when he protested the treatment. Several of the fourteen witnesses testified See used vile language during the quarrel.

A man docketed as W. J. Dickerhoof, no address, was committed to the Maryland House of Correction for four months after he pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy yesterday in trial magistrates court. Dickerhoof, who gave his initials to police as "D. W." was paroled on the same charge July 1 after he promised to go to work.

Charges of failure to pay room rent to the value of $14.50 were dropped against Wilbert T. Rahn, listed as a Cumberland Steel Company employe, when Rahn paid the sum and costs to a constable yesterday. Charges were preferred before Magistrate Frank A. Perdew by Howard Leasure, manager of the Allegany Inn hotel.

U.S.O. Shows Please G.I's, Representative Says

It's not the "Big Shots" in show business who get the most applause on the hundreds of islands and atolls in the vast Pacific theater, a veteran trooper with Army USO shows told a conference of the National War Fund Committee this week in Hagerstown which was attended by Cumberland representatives.

It's the little known but hard working troopers of the USO units who give the biggest dose of laughs to the G.I's sweating it out on the various coral rockpiles, Miss Honey MacKenzie declared.

They never dog it. They travel on anything that rolls or flies and it is not uncommon for the troopers to arrive at jungle airfields in transports, or "Bully Beefers" as they are called by the G.I.'s, crammed in with ordnance supplies.

It is these small, hard-working units who really take entertainment to the most outlying areas, Miss MacKenzie said. And the G.I.'s have never accused them of easing off on a schedule yet, she declared.

Many Motorists Are Now Buying Auto Use Stamps

Tag Warnings Given to 800 Operators by Internal Revenue Men

Tag warnings to approximately 800 automobile operators in Cumberland and vicinity have resulted in majority co-operation in the purchase of the $5 federal auto tax stamp, according to Richard J. Stakem, division chief of the local internal revenue office.

Four hundred stamps have been sold at the local revenue office, post office building, since the drive to round-up tardy purchasers started July 12. Other tagged motorists, as well as motorists who had not received notification, purchased approximately 550 stamps between Monday and Tuesday mornings at the local post office. One hundred and forty additional stamps were sold at the window yesterday.

Four thousand stamps have been sold at the post office since the stamps went on sale July 1.

Stakem said that more than 200 persons who had been tagged purchased stamps and were checked off at the revenue office yesterday. Several hundred have been checked off since the drive began.

Tag warnings will continue to be issued, Stakem said, until officers cover Allegany and Garrett counties. Postmasters in both counties have been instructed to ask for the warnings when the motorists purchase stamps. They will turn the license numbers in to the local revenue office to be checked off.

If motorists fail to respond to the warnings their license numbers will be sent to Baltimore for the owners' identifications. Further action will be handled through the collector's office in Baltimore, Stakem said.

Under the Revenue Act of 1941, the penalty for failure to purchase a stamp is a fine of not less than $25 or thirty days imprisonment or both. The penalty for driving an automobile on which the stamp does not appear is a maximum fine of $25.

Many motorists whose cars were tagged reported that their stamps had been lost or stolen, Stakem said. He pointed out that if the motorist has the stamp serial number, he will receive authority to drive without the stamp by making an affidavit concerning the loss at the revenue office.

If the motorist does not have the serial number of the lost stamp, he said, permission to drive without it will be granted if the facts on the affidavit are considered satisfactory at the revenue office.

Mrs. John Baker Is Taken by Death

Mrs. Emma Sweitzer Baker, 69, wife of John A. Baker, 16 Arch street, died yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock in a Hagerstown hospital. She had been in failing health for about six months.

Mrs. Baker, who came to this city from Baltimore three years ago, lived with her husband, a B and O. Bolt and Forge worker, at 16 Arch street, until about eight weeks ago when, due to ill health, she was taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. Mollie Wolf, Hagerstown.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Richard Baker, 39 Virginia avenue; one daughter, Mrs. Helen Payton, Hagerstown; three other sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Moats, Syracuse, N. Y., and Mrs. Bertha Showe, and Miss Cecelia Sweitzer, both of Hagerstown; one brother, William Sweitzer, who made his home with Mrs. Baker at 16 Arch street, and several nieces and grandchildren.

JOHN W. ZILER RITES

Funeral services for John W. Ziler, 47, who died of a heart attack Saturday at his home, 305 Virginia avenue, were conducted yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of his son, Seaman Second Class Bernard Ziler, 223 Arch street.

The Rev. Lawrence P. Landrigan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, officiated and interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Pallbearers were Simon G. Mock, Carl G. Reuschel, John L. Mock, Chester E. Parker, Wilbert Elbin and Paul N. Davidson.

Police Investigate Local Robberies

City and state police continue to investigate a robbery at the home of Mrs. J. R. Geddes, 821 Yale street, and the Collins motor sales and service building, Baltimore pike and Nave's Crossing, which occured Tuesday morning.

No trace of the two men and a woman who duped Mrs. John Gracey, Mt. Savage, and made off with several valuables Monday morning has been found. One of the men pretended to be a buddy of Mrs. Gracey's son who is in the navy.

Jewelry valued at several hundred dollars was stolen from the Geddes home. Cash, gas and kerosene coupons were stolen from the Collins building.

"Missing Money" Found

City police have been informed by Mrs. Margaret Sensabaugh, North Cedar street, that $265 which she reported as stolen in a Valley road tavern last Tuesday, has been located. The local woman said she found the bills wedged in a dresser drawer at her home.

Will Receive Hearing

Lawrence Green, 93 Henderson avenue, will be given a hearing in police court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was summoned yesterday by Officer W. E. Valentine.

Cement Products Company To Make Improvements

Company Is Sold to New Corporation Headed by Harold R. Fletcher

Plans calling for improvements that will cost approximately $30,000 were announced yesterday by the Cement Products Company at 407 Henderson avenue which has been under new management since July 2.

The firm's expansion program calls for a new block plant at an estimated cost of $15,000 which will result in completely renovating the old setup. The present office space in the plant will be converted into a store room. Another addition will be that of a batching plant. A new transit three-yard mixture has already been added.

Change Made July 2

The cement products concern changed hands on July 2 when William P. Roeder, who also operates the Motor Transfer Company, sold the cement company's operating business to a new corporation headed by Harold R. Fletcher, of the Peoples Bank, with Clarence Lippel, secretary.

As it formerly existed, the cement firm consisted of two parts, the operating business and certain assets. In the transaction of July 2 only the operating busines was sold and the assets reverted to the Motor Transfer Company and were recorded at the court house.

Operation of the plant has been continuous and there was no pause during the recent transactions when Roeder stepped out and the new firm stepped in. Organization of the new corporation is not fully completed as yet, Fletcher said last night.

In buying the operating business, the new firm did not buy the property, (which it is now renting), but Ralph Cover, new manager of the company, said that plans are being made to purchase the property and the title is now being searched.

Assets of the company under the former management which were deeded over to the Motor Transfer Company included property on Highland street, a property on Frederick street and property on the Mt. Savage road.

Camp Councilors' Training Meeting Set for Tonight

The fourth in a series of five meetings providing a training course for fifteen "Y" camp councilors will be held at 7:30 p. m. today at Central YMCA.

Oscar I. Bergstrom, associate general secretary of the "Y", will discuss water safety, including swimming and boating regulations; and health precautions, including camp checkups, regulations; and health precautions, including camp checkups, diet, rest periods, and treatment of colds. Eugene Hopkins and the Rev. Louis Chastain, associate camp directors, will also attend the meeting.

The final meeting in the training series will be held Thursday, July 26, when the councilors will be guests of the organization at a dinner meeting to be held at 6 p. m. in the Central YMCA cafeteria. At that time a summary of the preceding meetings will be given.

The councilors will leave the YMCA at 2 p. m. Saturday, July 28, to go to the camp in the Pleasant Valley recreation area, Garrett county. On Saturday, July 29, at 8 a. m., 109 boys will leave the YMCA to begin a four weeks' camping season. The season will end August 26.

Bergstrom also said yesterday that twenty-eight girls, in charge of Mrs. James Kelley, Jr., toured the office and plant of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, Union street, yesterday morning.

Two tours each week for both boys and girls are sponsored by the "Y". Six of the tours have been completed, with fourteen more scheduled during the summer. Visits to the Celanese plant and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will be made within a few weeks, the first organized tours to be made through those plants in several years.

City Tax Deadline Is Saturday Noon

Cumberland taxpayers must pay their city taxes before the deadline at noon this Saturday or face interest charges for each month after that time, it was announced yesterday by Charles F. Burke, Jr., assistant city tax collector.

Burke said that taxes must be paid by law within sixty day after the date of the levy, which was made May 21. Payments should be made at the tax office in city hall.

After Saturday, interest at the rate of one half of one per cent will be charged for each month in which persons fail to pay their city taxes, amounting to six per cent interest at the end of one year.

During August preparations will be made for tax sales of property on which back taxes have not been paid, Burke warned.
